Expect U. S. to Give Official Recognition to Franco Regime

Washington Likely To Follow Traditional Policy

AZANA RESIGNS

Loyalist Republic Now
President

Washington —(P)—The United States eventually will recognize General Franco's regime in Spain, officials indicated today, in line with the traditional American policy of recognizing governments achieved through revolution.

This policy dates back to Secretary of State Thomas Jefferson, who declared:

"We surely cannot deny to any nation that right where our own government is founded, that everyone may govern itself according to whatever form it pleases, and change these forms at its own will." Jefferson adopted the policy known as the de facto theory, as opposed to the theory of dynastic legitimacy followed in the middle ages and from the sixteenth to the eighteenth centuries.

When the French revolution gave France a new government, Jefferson instructed the American minister in Paris in 1792:

"If, according to our principles to acknowledge any government to be rightful which is formed by the will of the nation, substantially declared."

The state department followed Jefferson's policy to the letter for over half a century. The American Civil war, however, inculcated in the department greater reluctance to recognize governments risen from revolution.

However, in the present century recognition generally has been accorded it was shown that the de facto government possessed the machinery of the state, encountered no substantial resistance, and was in position to fulfill all its international obligations and responsibilities.

Paris —(P)—The president of the Spanish republic, Manuel Azana, resigned in exile today while Franco and Britain, anxious over German-Italian influence in Spain, watched the results of their recognition of Generalissimo Franco as the ruler of Spain.

Azana, who fled to France after the fall of Barcelona January 26, sent his resignation to his constitutional successor, Diego Martinez Barrio, president of the Spanish cortes-parliament.

But it was understood Martinez Barrio had declined the succession, leaving the republican regime without a chief of state.

Azana, who went to Colloquey, Scotland yesterday from Paris, where he had lived since Generalissimo Franco's troops cleaned up Catalonia, had withheld publication of his resignation until after French recognition of Franco's regime as the legitimate government of Spain.

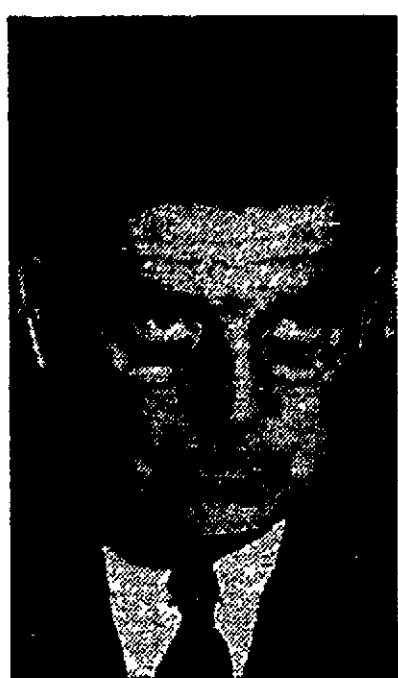

The letter was sent to Paris by special messenger yesterday, the day on which France and Britain ceased to regard the republican regime as Spain's real government.

Reveals Letter
The letter of resignation was disclosed by Azana's brother-in-law, Cipriano Rivas Cherif. Azana was in exile at a nearby estate with his family.

The retiring chief of state made plain in his letter that he considered all possibilities of carrying on the presidency ended. Martinez Barrio was understood to have declined the constitutional succession, thus leaving the republican government without a president.

Interests immediately focused on who would succeed Azana. The question would have on the plans of Premier Juan Negrin, General Jose Miaja,

WANT TO BE CHICAGO'S MAYOR.

Heavy Balloting At Chicago Polls

Scattered Violence Reported in City's Primary Battle

Chicago —(P)—Heavy balloting and scattered violence set Chicago's mayoral primary into motion today.

Despite cloudy skies and some rain, an estimated 595,000 voters turned out in the first 41 hours the polls were open. Chief Clerk John S. Rusch of the election board, who made the estimate, said three-fourths of the votes cast were Democratic and one-fourth Republican. Democratic voters chose between a crusading, young prosecutor, Thomas J. Courtney, and the incumbent chief of the Democratic organization, Mayor Edward J. Kelly. Republican "X's" went for either Dwight H. Green, a former federal prosecutor in his campaign debut, or for William Hale "Big Bill" Thompson, three times mayor previously.

A record vote before the polls close at 5 o'clock p. m. was forecast by County Judge Edmund J. Karczek, head of the city's election machinery. He estimated 1,500,000 ballots would be cast from among 1,273,322 eligible voters, a record registration. Other estimates ranged down to 1,000,000.

Jarecki's Prediction
Jarecki, a Democrat, predicted the Democratic total would be 1,150,000.

Disturbances were reported to police even before the polls were opened. Stench and smoke bombs were thrown into a polling place and a hotel where a politician resided. Bullets were fired into another politician's home and tires of another's automobile were slashed.

The first arrest was that of a Republican clerk in the first, the downtown, ward, who was accused of handing two ballots to a voter.

In another ward, an electioneer was slugged by eight workers for the rival candidate when he attempted to vote. Other cases of intimidation were reported to police.

Republican leaders regarded a victory for their candidate in the regular election April 4 as a favorable augury for the 1940 presidential contest. The Republican organization backed Green against Thompson.

Chief Is Summoned in Burglary of Own Home
Huntington Park, Calif. —(P)—"There's been a burglary at 6308 Templeton street," a feminine voice reported to Chief of Police W. L. Hultquist.

"All right, madame, we'll send an officer right over to investigate," Hultquist replied.

"Then, comprehension—
"My gosh, that's my house," the chief rolled and leaped on a motorcycle.

The burglar had stolen clothing and two revolvers.

Senators Ask Referendum on Overseas War

Would Give People Sole
Right to Decide to Enter Conflict

BOB FAVORS PLAN

Vote Not Necessary in Event of Attack on U.
S. or Possessions

Washington —(P)—Twelve senators proposed today a constitutional amendment to give the people the sole right to declare an overseas war.

The resolution would provide for a national referendum on whether such a war should be declared. The referendum would be held when congress deemed "a national crisis to exist."

A referendum would not be necessary for a declaration of war, however, in case of attack, or immediately threatened attack, upon the United States or its possessions. Neither would a referendum be held if any non-American nation attacked or threatened to attack any country in the western hemisphere.

Senator LaFollette (P-Wis.), one of the signers of the referendum proposal, said in a statement that it would be "a final check against secret diplomacy that may decoy us into a foreign war against our will."

"No president would deliberately plot to embroil us in a foreign war against our will," LaFollette said, "but he may take a series of dangerous steps that add up to a virtual commitment. It did happen here in 1917."

Other Signers
Besides LaFollette, signers of the resolution were Senators Bone of Washington; Clark of Idaho; Clark of Missouri; Donahy of Ohio, and Murray and Wheeler of Montana, all Democrats; Capper of Kansas; Frazier of North Dakota and Nye of North Dakota, Republicans; Lundeen and Shipstead, both Minnesota, Farmer-Laborites.

The constitutional amendment was proposed while the senate continued debate on the administration's $358,000,000 air corps and army expansion bill.

Senator Borah (R-Idaho) told reporters in advance of resumption of debate that the measure was "just a lot of bluff and bluster."

In his statement, LaFollette said the referendum proposal "will keep the war referendum proposal was advanced in the last congress, but it was shelved in the house."

Wagner Submits Health Measure

New Yorker Introduces Legislation to Carry Out Roosevelt Plan

Washington —(P)—Senator Wagner (D-N.Y.) introduced in the senate today legislation to carry out the broad national health program asked by President Roosevelt.

The New Yorker offered a series of amendments to the social security act which, he said, "would bring the benefits of modern medical science, both preventive and curative, within the reach of all groups of the population, especially in rural areas and areas suffering from economic distress."

Wagner, in a statement, said the proposals would provide grants to states "for the purpose of establishing, expanding and improving states' programs for (1) child and maternal care; (2) general public health services and investigations; (3) construction of needed hospitals and health centers; (4) general programs of medical care; and (5) insurance against the loss of wages during periods of temporary disability."

Federal administration of the funds would be based in existing agencies, the children's bureau, the public health service and the social security board, Wagner asserted.

The senator said that the bill clearly understood that the bill does not establish a system of health insurance, or require the states to do so.

States, he continued, "will be free to develop plans of their own choosing, subject to necessary basic standards."

Injured Tigerton Man Says He Was Shot by Bandits: Unable To Summon Aid for Five Days

Charles Roepke, 65, Tigerton, is in a serious condition at the Shawano Municipal hospital today with a bullet wound in his head. He told authorities he had been shot resisting a holdup in his home last Wednesday.

Roepke told Undersheriff Otto Druckery of Shawano county he had been unable to summon aid for five days because of his weakened condition. Yesterday he caught the attention of a neighbor by waving at him through a window. Examination at the hospital showed there are two pieces of bullet in his head.

Value of Dollar to Be Changed Only in Event of Emergency

Washington —(P)—Secretary Morgenthau told congress today the administration had no intention of changing the value of the dollar unless an emergency arises.

Reading a prepared statement to the house coinage committee on President Roosevelt's request for extension of his power to change the gold value of the dollar and to operate the $2,000,000,000 stabilization fund, Morgenthau said:

"The fact that we have kept the gold value of the dollar stable (at $35 per ounce) through the international monetary disturbances and alarms of the past five years should be adequate assurance that there is neither desire nor intent on the part of this administration to alter the gold value of the dollar except under circumstance which clearly demand such action."

The treasury secretary described the power to change the dollar value as a "weapon in reserve" and said it was important in the monetary field as the navy was in war.

He asserted it was unwise for the United States to "tie its hands" by permanently fixing the dollar's gold value at a time when no other important country in the world had taken such action.

Woman, 78, Dies of 3rd Degree Burns In Home Accident

Mrs. John J. Schiebler
Fatally Hurt When
Clothes Catch Fire

Mrs. John J. Schiebler, 78, who was severely burned at her home, 725 W. Spencer street, shortly before noon yesterday, died at 6 o'clock this morning.

She was working at the kitchen gas stove when her clothes caught fire. Her screams attracted her husband in the next room and he put out the blaze and summoned aid. She suffered third degree burns about the arms, legs and body. Most of the clothes burned off her. She was taken to St. Elizabeth hospital.

Mrs. Schiebler was born June 5, 1860 at Greenville and lived in Appleton the last 40 years. She was a member of St. Joseph's Catholic church.

Survivors are the widower; two brothers, Peter Bartman, Appleton; Hubert Bartman, San Francisco, Calif.; two sisters, Mrs. Antone Smith, Eau Claire; and Mrs. H. Locksmith, Appleton.

The body is at the Schommer Funeral home where it will be from Wednesday afternoon until time of the funeral.

Cardinals Will Start Voting on Successor To Pius XI Tomorrow

Vatican City —(P)—Cardinals arranged their affairs today for voluntary imprisonment in the conclave to elect a new pope which starts tomorrow.

They met briefly in the congregation to have they daily since the death of Pius XI, then turned individually to personal affairs.

The opening of the conclave awaited only the arrival of Cardinal O'Connell of Boston and the two Latin American cardinals, Leme and Coppola.

Vatican circles thought the conclave itself might be hastened with the possibility a new pope would be elected before Sunday.

The cardinals already have had more time to consider a choice with in their own minds than when Pius was elected 15 days after the death of Benedict XV.

Business Group Will Have Meeting Thursday

Washington —(P)—Secretary Hopkins' business advisory council will meet Thursday to give its opinion on the recent administration overtures toward government-industry cooperation.

The group of about 60 industrial and financial leaders will deliberate in the light of "no-new-tax" promises from administration officials of the president's labor peace proposal and of Hopkins' plea for stimulus to private investment in industry.

Council members are reported to regard taxes and labor as the fields in which the government can best assist business, and they are expected to authorize committees to study suggestions in these fields.

Meanwhile, Secretary Morgenthau said the treasury had sufficient cash on hand to meet its bills until April 1 and would not borrow any additional funds March 15, its quarterly refinancing date.

Heil Declares Tax Setup to Be Simplified

Wants Taxpayers to be Able to Make Out
Their Own Reports

OUTLINES HIS PLANS

Hopes to Put All State
Departments Under
One Management

Milwaukee —(P)—Governor Julius P. Heil told the Wisconsin State Chamber of Commerce yesterday the state tax structure was being simplified to make it unnecessary for taxpayers to engage attorneys to determine their taxes.

In a general discussion of state affairs, the governor said he hoped to have all state departments operating under a single management, and that a forestry program to aid in the rehabilitation of 23 northern counties was being considered.

"You can't have half a dozen presidents of a bank," Heil said. "Now everyone is fighting with one another."

The state legislature, Heil asserted, has to lure industry back to the state, because "we cannot continue to tax it out of house and home."

He urged trade and business organizations to cooperate in "selling" Wisconsin. "Nothing constrains" he said, "has been done to lure industry."

They are reluctant to continue pouring money into Wisconsin as they did in other years."

Helped Save Industry
Heil said his mission was "to lure minds who haven't been so favorably impressed with my predecessors. I am not going to mention names, but I saw the president of a corporation in your state whose plant was closed down and who, because of its age, didn't know whether to keep on going. I pleaded with him. I took along a few crying towels. Now that institution is going to spend $3,000,000. Otherwise that plant wouldn't be here."

(Last week International Harvester company announced it would spend $3,000,000 modernizing its Milwaukee works to prepare for manufacture of Diesel engines.)

Heil said a single agency should handle advertising and promotion of Wisconsin products, industry, agriculture and natural advantages.

The governor said a program would be worked out in the northwestern counties for clearing timber and

Finnegan Witness At Drews Trial

Former Attorney General
Issued 'Courtesy Card'
To Wittenberg

Milwaukee —(P)—Former Attorney General James E. Finnegan testified in circuit court today that Attorney Michael N. Wittenberg never had power to act as a representative of the attorney general's office.

Finnegan said he issued a "courtesy card" to Wittenberg in 1936 because "Wittenberg said he was going to a convention and wanted to make a hit." The card identified Wittenberg as a special assistant attorney general.

Wittenberg and Walter A. Drews, chief investigator for the state board of health, are on trial on charges of attempted extortion of $2,000 from Dr. Leland Trump under threat of revocation of his medical license.

Drews, charging he was the victim of a "frameup," testified recently in his own defense that he consulted Wittenberg under the impression the latter was connected with the attorney general's office.

Wittenberg, who has turned state's evidence, had accused Drews of instigating a "shakedown" by offering to suppress a report against Dr. Trump intended for the health board.

Dr. Henry McMahon, member of the state board of medical examiners, testified Drews reported to the board on the Dr. Trump investigation June 30, two days before Drews is alleged to have taken up the matter with Wittenberg.

Earlier, Mrs. Janet Biesaj Drozdziewicz, 25, an investigator for Drews, testified Dr. Trump agreed to perform an illegal operation at her suggestion.

Passenger Train Hits Freight at Crossing: 2 are Dead, 2 Injured

Pasco, Wash. —(P)—Railway officials and county authorities investigated today the crushing collision of a Northern Pacific passenger train and Union Pacific freight train in which two trainmen were killed and two others were injured. A cattle-loaded freight car was smashed.

The passenger train, a "local" bound from Walla Walla, Wash., to Pasco for connection with Seattle, ran broadside into the freight at the Attala crossing, about 12 miles southeast of here, at 9 o'clock last night.

The Northern Pacific engine overturned, killing engineer R. R. Ealey, of Spokane, and William Lott, fireman of Pasco, Wash.

Alva A. Frerer, about 55, a Union Pacific brakeman, was taken to Walla Walla with head injuries. The portland office of the Union Pacific reported H. Harder, a stock attendant, suffered a foot injury.

Labor Board's Critics Strive To Cut Powers

Test Votes Show
Assembly Favors
New Labor Law

House Adopts Four
Amendments and Rejects Two Others

Madison —(P)—The assembly, by preliminary test votes, indicated today it would enrage the bill calling for a new state labor law to be known as the employment peace act, sponsored by the Wisconsin Council of Agriculture.

The house adopted four amendments, defeated two others, and recessed until 4:30 p. m. for further debate.

The Wisconsin Federation of Labor, which is bitterly opposed to the bill, was represented by nearly 1,000 delegates who left their two-day legislative conference to pack the assembly galleries and lobbies.

Debate, which extended far past the noon hour, centered on a motion to kill the bill. It was made by Tehan (D) Milwaukee, who claimed labor was satisfied with the present law under which a labor relations board, patterned after the federal board, was created in 1937.

Present Law "Fair"
"As far as I am able to learn, there appears to be a unanimity of opinion on the part of organized labor in the fairness of the administration of the present Wisconsin labor relations act," Tehan said.

He said representatives of 27 independent unions met at Milwaukee last night to draft a substitute to the bill, but they were unable to finish it and agreed to ask indefinite postponement instead.

Peterson (R) Berlin, author of the measure, charged the present state board sidestepped the labor issue in dealing with farm cooperatives and handed strike disputes to the national board.

Peterson contended labor organizers objected to a provision for a secret ballot on strike questions because it diminished their influence on employees.

He said employees were afraid to vote their convictions at union meetings because they put up their hands at the wrong time, it might come off at the elbow."

Reject Amendments
The assembly majority indicated its sentiment on the bill by rejecting, 52 to 39, a substitute amendment introduced by Assemblyman Daugs (D) Ft. Atkinson, repealing the present law and vesting powers of mediation and arbitration in the state industrial commission.

It also killed, 53 to 42, a Progressive amendment by Harvey of Racine and Rubin of Milwaukee, which would have exempted all employers and employees subject to the national labor relations act.

If the assembly engrosses the bill the next step will be final passage.

Wage-Hour Law Fines Imposed

Massachusetts Firm and Official Plead Guilty
To Federal Charge

Boston —(P)—The government's first criminal prosecution for violation of the wage-hour law ended today with pleas of guilty, and the imposition of fines totaling $1,500.

The pleas of guilty were entered to federal indictments charging that the Brown Contract Stitching Inc., a Lawrence, Mass. shoe company, and Nathan Brown, treasurer and general manager of the corporation, failed to pay the required 25 cents an hour minimum wage, falsified records, failed to keep required records and put goods thus produced into interstate commerce.

Brown was fined $1,000 and the corporation $500.

Government agents contended the corporation had saved between $100 and $1,000 through evading the law.

Counsel for the defendants advised Federal Judge Elisha H. Brewster, before he pronounced sentence, that full restitution would be made to employees.

Joseph E. Brill, chief of the wage-hour unit of the department of justice, who developed the government's case, asked that Brown and the company be fined $1,000 each, but Judge Brewster said the outcome of the case would show it had cost more than $2,000 to "play with fire," which should be "sufficient to discourage others."

Arrest Cedarburg Man In Theater Burglary

Watertown —(P)—District Attorney William Rogers issued a warrant today charging Donald Cash, 33, of Cedarburg, with entering an office in the night time with intent to commit larceny.

The warrant was issued in connection with the $325 safe burglary at the Classic theater here yesterday. Cash was arrested at Port Washington last night and later was taken to Jefferson.

Cash denied knowledge of the crime.

Court Decisions Spur
Move for Added Restrictions

LAUD RULINGS

Federation Official Says
Findings Justify Policies

Washington —(P)—The first major reverses suffered by the national labor relations board in the supreme court encouraged the board's critics today to press demands for new restrictions on its operations.

An official of the American Federation of Labor said "the supreme court decision in the Fansteel case is a justification of the policies of the A. F. of L. with regard to the labor board."

Senator Burke (D-Neb.) declared the decisions were "excellent" and said they would bring support for proposals to amend the Wagner labor act, under which the board was set up in 1935.

Both Burke and the A. F. of L. have proposed changes in the act. Burke would make the law recognize specifically the rights of employers as well as employees in labor disputes. The A. F. of L. would attempt to set up legal safeguards against what it feels the board's partiality toward the CIO.

Reverses Seek Peace
The court delivered its opinions yesterday in the midst of efforts by President Roosevelt to end the bitter rivalry between the A. F. of L. and the CIO.

Labor and the administration alike awaited some response from John L. Lewis, CIO chief, to the president's appeal, William Green, A. F. of L. president, already has appointed his negotiators.

In one of the N.L.R.B. cases the supreme court took occasion to condemn sit-down strikes. Chief Justice Hughes read the opinion which, reversing the labor board, upheld the right of the Fansteel Metallurgical Corporation, of North Chicago, Ill., to discharge employees who occupied two key buildings of the Fansteel plant during a 1937 strike.

The court upheld a part of the board's ruling which ordered the company to withdraw recognition of a Rare Metal Workers' union and bargain with the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers, a CIO affiliate which originally brought the charges against Fansteel.

Other Cases
The other cases involved the Sands Manufacturing company of Cleveland, against which charges were brought by the Mechanics Educational Society of America, an independent union; and the Columbian Enameling and Stamping company, Inc., of Terre Haute, Ind., against which charges were brought by an Enameling and Stamping mill employees' union (A. F. of L.).

In both those cases the court set aside labor board orders to reinstate striking employees who had been discharged. Involved was the question of labor responsibility to uphold contracts.

Some Wagner act students, in the absence of any formal comment from the N.L.R.B. said the Fansteel case probably held legal concepts of greatest importance to labor.

May Bring Tests
They raised the question whether other illegal acts committed incidentally to a walkout might hereafter be considered sufficient grounds for an employer to discharge strikers. They predicted this question would have to be answered by the high court in future labor cases, possibly involving such matters as minor property destruction in the course of a strike.

Many members of congress expressed approval of the court's condemnation of sit-down strikes.

Senator Minton (D-Ind.) was one of these, but he also predicted opponents of the labor act would "undoubtedly try and use this decision to stir up propaganda against the act just like they did when they bombarded the New Deal about the NRA."

'Mail Propaganda' Assailed by Ickes As Threat to U. S.

Cleveland —(P)—Secretary Ickes attacked last night "high-powered mail order propaganda" intended, he said, to cause "national confusion and governmental prostration."

Addressing the American Association of School Administrators, the cabinet member recalled the defeat in congress of the New Deal's government reorganization bill.

"The way the congress meets this issue this year will indicate how our government is going to meet the critical problems of the next few years," declared the interior department chief.

He said "the crisis which impends in our social and economic order transcends political parties and party factions."

Time Marches On!

A news item says, "Paris, France, did not adopt a standard hour until 1816." That certainly would have been convenient in some instances—particularly getting to work mornings! And it must have been a boon to the clock and watch manufacturers. Everyone would have to own enough time-pieces to correspond to each of his various activities. That is, "theater time," "upper," "meal time," "date time," etc. Their National Anthem should have been "Your Time is My Time."

Franco to Uphold Independence of Regime in Spain

No 'General Reprisals for Political Offenses,' He Wires Chamberlain

London — (3) — Prime Minister Chamberlain read to the house of commons today a telegram from Generalissimo Franco asserting the newly-recognized Spanish national government would maintain its independence.

The prime minister read the message during bitter debate on Britain's recognition of the nationalist regime in which the nation's opposition charged that Italy and Germany would dominate Spain.

"Spain is not disposed to accept any foreign intervention which might impair the (nationalist government's) dignity or sovereignty," Chamberlain also said Franco had given the British government "assurances against general reprisals for strictly political offenses."

Jewish Families Who Ate Non-Kosher Meat Must Destroy Plates

Chicago — (4) — A group of orthodox Jewish families, it was disclosed today by Rabbi Menahem B. Sacks, faced the necessity of having to destroy some of their china-ware and other plates from which they had eaten non-kosher meat in recent weeks.

At a court hearing yesterday Hyman Goldberg, a northwest side outlier, admitted he had sold some non-kosher meat although he advertised only kosher food. Sacks, executive director of the Union of Orthodox Hebrew Congregations of Chicago, had filed a complaint against Goldberg under a state law prohibiting such practice.

Goldberg, unable to post $500 bond, was held in jail pending his arraignment tomorrow.

"It will be up to the individual housewife in the families affected to determine what plates shall be destroyed or kept out of future use after she has conferred with her rabbi," Sacks said.

Strangulation Is Termed Cause of Death in Mystery

Officials Consider Grand Jury Investigation In Illinois

Joliet, Ill. — (7) — The mysterious lover's lane deaths of two young students prompted officials to consider a grand jury investigation today of conditions at the Joliet township high school.

The students, Ruth Virginia Underwood, 17, and William Engmann, 18, were found dead in an automobile parked on a wooded park road.

Coroner Landon Brannon said the girl died of strangulation and that Engmann presumably died of carbon monoxide poisoning several hours later. The girl was clad only in shoes and stockings.

Brannon said he would request an investigation of conditions at the school as well as an inquiry into the death of Miss Underwood. Engmann was a football player and co-captain of the football team.

The youth's arm was around his companion's neck when a searching party, that included Engmann's father, discovered the bodies yesterday. Coroner Brannon said he was investigating the possibility that she was strangled accidentally in an embrace.

Says Exhaust Leaked

Ross Engmann, brother of the victim, said exhaust fumes leaked into the car when he drove it the previous day. When the fumes were found the car radio was playing the windows were closed, and all of the gasoline had been consumed.

The students were companions for several months. Their parents concluded they had eloped when they failed to return home Sunday night after saying they intended going to a movie.

Dr. Brannon planned to confer with Circuit Judge Edwin T. Wilson regarding a grand jury investigation.

Cleveland — (7) — Dr. William W. Haggard, principal of the Joliet township (Ill.) high school, said today school conditions "had nothing at all to do" with the lover's lane death of two students.

Dr. Haggard, attending the American Education Association convention in St. Louis, said he and his wife "went to a movie and went riding afterwards. There was no school affair or activity connected with their movie-going and automobile riding. There is little evidence of immorality at the school and any such charges are unfounded. They are ridiculous."

Rep. Schafer Asserts Mrs. Roosevelt Wrote Policy for Air Line

Washington — (7) — A heated exchange developed in the house yesterday when Rep. Schafer (R-Wis.) asserted that Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt had written insurance for a Pan American Airways clipper.

Declaring Pan-American is going to get a subsidy for a trans-Atlantic air mail service, he called attention to a provision in the treasury-post office appropriation bill for $996,000 for the service.

Schafer was accused by Rep. Ford (D-Calif.) of making a "pure, demagogic misstatement."

The Wisconsin member rose to his feet shouting. He said the insurance had been written by the firm of Roosevelt and Sargent. That was the concern in which James Roosevelt formerly was a partner. Later, Mrs. Roosevelt became a director of the concern to look after her son's interests.

"The first lady of the land didn't write that insurance, and you know it," Ford roared.

Former School Head Dies

American Medical Service Costs Too Much-Dr. Shadid

Co-op Hospital Head Criticizes Competitive System

Cooperative medicine was offered as the answer to the problem of providing adequate medical services to all, particularly those "unable to pay for them under the competitive system," by Dr. Michael Shadid, chief surgeon and founder of the Elk City Cooperative Hospital of Elk City, Oklahoma, in a talk last night at Memorial chapel.

Declaring that under the present system, the medical profession "never has and never will fulfill its mission," Dr. Shadid charged American medicine with being too costly, with operating in an inefficient manner, and with "being dishonest in many instances."

He declared that only a small percentage of the people can afford the medical attention they need and that under a cooperative plan like that which is practiced in the Elk City hospital, the details of which he explained fully, these services can be brought within reach of the lower income groups.

"On the one side you have the doctors with all types of expensive, modern equipment and on the other side you have many people who need help and do not seek it because they feel they can't afford it."

This indictment, he said, is not against individuals but against the system. He illustrated his point by asserting that "50 per cent of the people in the United States who get $1,200 or less a year get no medical care whatever."

Changes Inefficiency

The small, mild-mannered doctor told his audience that "competitive medicine is not available to a large number of people but what is available is inefficient."

Medical surgery is "too vast a field for one or two doctors to cover," he said, remarking that some doctors "go away for two or three months and come back specialists."

"There is too much power and not enough responsibility among doctors. We need more laws governing medicine."

He pointed out in his address that cooperative medicine is not socialized medicine "under which the politicians would have control." In the cooperative scheme, the distribution of medical care is still under the control of the doctors, with families paying a certain amount each year for services.

He contended that in a cooperative system, doctors working on a salary basis "do not lose their initiative." He offered as proof the medical achievements of men employed by the United States Health Service, declaring that their work has been outstanding in American medical history.

'Minority Group'

Of his charge of dishonesty among doctors, the cooperative hospital head said there "is a minority group in the medical profession that capitalizes on the ignorance and takes advantage of the misfortunes of people."

To this group he attributed mercenary motives in the practice of medicine, picturing them as doctors who regard a "pail in the side of a rich man as appendicitis and in the side of a poor man as a stomach ache."

The inefficiency which he laid at the door of the American medical profession is "best illustrated by its failure in the field of preventive medicine," he said. "Only two per cent of the medical dollar goes for prevention, the remaining 98 cents for treatment. People wait until something is wrong and then come to the doctor. The doctor in many instances has become a tradesman who has services to sell and only sick people buy them."

The Elk City Cooperative Hospital, in a city of 8,000 people, has membership which pays fixed levies for its medical services. Non-members treated at the hospital pay $2 a day. Dr. Shadid said. An X-ray picture costs $3 and each additional picture $2. The salaries of the staff, six doctors and two dentists, range from $3,600 to $10,000.

Treatment of sewage at the River view sanatorium at the village of Little Chute sewage disposal plant will be started about May 1, according to John Vande Yacht, village president. Construction of a pump house and the laying of about a mile of sewer pipe have been completed and only a few minor details remain to be completed on the WPA project which has been working for about 35 men this winter. Most of the materials for the project was paid by WPA and the county.

Majority of State Bills Yet To Come, Librarian Believes

Madison — (7) — Now that the deadline for introduction of individual bills and resolutions in the legislature has passed, the legislative reference library, which drafts virtually all these measures, is really faced with work.

Two-thirds of the session's probable total is yet to come, says Howard F. Ohm, library chief, citing a 38-year average.

Many measures dropped into the hopper before Feb. 15 consisted of jackets merely carrying a title. They, as well as others introduced after the deadline by unanimous consent or through committee, still must be drawn up.

The reference library, created in 1901, was the first in the United States and copied by 35 other states.

Dr. Charles McCarthy, its originator and head for 20 years, is honored by a bronze tablet in the assembly—an honor which only one other citizen has received.

The tablet contains McCarthy's words: "The kindly people of the state stretched out welcoming hands and gave me a man's work."

That work has increased through the years, though the library has

Increase Capital, Utility Is Told

No More Senior Financing Until Stock Equity Is Increased

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — The fact that the common stock of the Wisconsin Public Service corporation, one of Wisconsin's largest utilities and operating in central and northeastern Wisconsin, is only 18.3 per cent of the total capitalization of the company today had led the Wisconsin public service commission to urge the corporation to correct its low common stock equity.

In an order issued yesterday allowing the lifting of certain financial restrictions on the company as the result of its improved financial condition, the commission said the low common stock equity position has existed for a number of years, and efforts should be made to correct it.

"We are taking this opportunity, therefore, to state in a formal opinion what has been stated frequently to representatives of the company, namely, that additional common stock equity should be supplied before further senior financing is contemplated."

Improvement in the common stock equity of the petitioner appears to be desirable, the commission observed.

The order explained that the common stock of the corporation is owned by Standard Gas and Electric company, but it was also pointed out that there was no assurance given the commission in the recent proceeding of the ability of that firm to supply common stock capital.

As a result, the commission recommended that "if new capital requirements are not raised through common stock, then the needed stock equity must be built through operations, as additional senior financing appears inadvisable until at least several millions of equity capital have been provided."

The Federal Bureau of Investigation described the gain in industrial production during the last half of 1938 as one of the sharpest on record.

Independent Unions Opposing Labor Bill

Milwaukee — (7) — Opposition to the labor bill sponsored by the Wisconsin Council of Agriculture was voiced last night by representatives of nearly a score of independent state labor unions, all listed by the state labor board. The independents voted to send a committee to Madison today to oppose the bill and perhaps draft a substitute.

Clerk Orders Ballots For Primary Election

Ballots for the primary election were ordered yesterday by Carl J. Becker, city clerk. Eighteen separate ballots carrying the names of candidates for alderman and supervisor for each ward and the names of candidates at large for the school board will be printed. The election will be held March 14.

Where to Get Millions Needed For Relief Is Chief Worry of Governor and State Legislature

BY JOHN W. WYNGAARD Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — A problem which is now almost a decade old, but which legislators continue to designate as an "emergency" is again before the Wisconsin legislature for action. It is the matter of a state relief appropriation to supplement the federal works programs and local direct relief activity. It is one of the highest financial stumbling blocks of the Heil administration, because it will require the expenditure of from $3,000,000 to $5,000,000 for the next two years, depending on the state government's generosity, and the WPA situation.

The legislature has been making "emergency" relief appropriations since 1931, when localities besieged the capital for help. That year, under Phil LaFollette, it took the form of a works program. In 1933 the Schmedemann administration was forced to continue it. In 1935 LaFollette was again forced to recommend state relief funds. In 1937 the LaFollette administration invent-

Snowshoe Hare on Increase in State

Seen as Threat to Trees; Control Plans are Studied

Madison — (7) — Experiments to bring an increasing snowshoe hare population into harmony with the major program of tree production in state, county and national forests will be undertaken co-operatively by the Wisconsin Conservation department and the United States Forest Service.

Plans were discussed at a recent conference between the two agencies.

Foresters report no excessive damage by snowshoe hares this winter but point out that snowshoe hares are on the upgrade of their cycle and should reach their peak population in two or three years. At the same time thousands of acres of tree seedlings have started their slow course to maturity and many of the plantations face a crisis when the snowshoe population reaches its peak, the department said.

Tree planting has become a major conservation activity in Wisconsin. Last year about 10,000 acres of state and county forests were planted to trees and the federal forest service added 23,500 acres. Foresters say, however, that a much larger acreage than this is involved by increasing possible damage to natural growth and plantations of past years.

Experimental Plots

The co-operative plan contemplates working out control methods on a number of experimental plots where there has been evidence of tree damage by hares. The hope is that by the time the snowshoe emergency arrives, a closely supervised method of control will have been worked out that will prove generally satisfactory.

The two governmental agencies have invited the assistance of the U. S. Biological survey and a representative of the survey is expected to come to the state later to aid in drafting final control plans.

A number of control measures have been discussed but no decisions have been made as to methods to be followed or places where they may be tried out.

Approve Minor Changes In County Road System

The state highway department has approved the addition of 12 miles of road in the town of Oneida to the county trunk system and the removal from the system of about a mile of road in the town. The changes were made several years ago and the approval has been given so that state and county maps will agree on the placement of the sections.

More Than 19,000,000 Telephones in Nation

Washington — (7) — The number of telephones in use in the United States has increased 11.6 per cent since 1932.

The census bureau said today the count for Dec. 31, 1937, was 19,455,401. This number included 12,349,933 residence instruments and 7,044,267 business installations.

Salvation Army To Hold Service On Prison Sunday

Devotional Program Will Be Presented at County Jail

A special service in observance of "Prison Sunday" March 5 will be conducted at the Outagamie county jail by the local chapter of the Salvation Army, according to Captain T. A. Raber.

The service will consist of instrumental and vocal numbers and a lecture by Captain Raber.

Officers, bandmen and choristers of Salvation Army chapters in the 11 mid-western states will conduct devotional services in each of the city, county, state penal or correctional institutions in observance of "Prison Sunday." Brigadier H. E. Burtenshaw, prison secretary for the Salvation Army, in the territory is in charge of the plans for observance of the day.

"Prison Sunday" is part of the Salvation Army's program of prison work. The prison work began about 1882 with the establishment of a home for released prisoners. The founding and maintenance of these homes was known as "prison gate" work and was introduced in the United States in 1885. This type of work has since been discontinued, and the Army now is working principally within the institutions.

Prison work in the central states territory has two features, revival meetings held within the prison walls, and a correspondence Bible study course for prisoners.

Oration Subjects To Cover Current American Problems

Current problems facing American society will be the subjects of the five orations, which Appleton High school students will present for the Heiss oratory recital Monday evening, March 20, in the auditorium. All the speeches will be original.

War and peace will be the subjects discussed by three of the participants. James Hensel is preparing an oration on the effectiveness of propaganda, while Milburn Reitz is considering the relation of the totalitarian state to a war situation. Paul Schroth will speak on solidarity for peace in the Americas.

"Does the World Owe Me a Living?" is the question which Ralph Schubert will attempt to answer. The title of Robert Bohn's oration is "Democracy: Our Heritage." One of the participants will be selected to represent Appleton High school in the Fox River Valley oratory recital scheduled for April 12 at West Green Bay High school.

Murray Bill Modifies Menominee Indian Act

Post-Crescent Washington Bureau

Washington — Congressman Reid F. Murray, Wauconda Republican, has introduced a bill for the Menominee Indians, at the request of their representatives, Al Dodge, James Frechette and Gordon Dickie.

Although not in the form of an amendment, the bill would in effect amend or modify the act of 1934 which limited the enrollment of the tribe to those of predominantly Menominee blood, as certified by the secretary of the interior.

That measure, intended to keep "foreigners" out of the tribe, was so strict that Menominee children could not be enrolled, the Indian representatives told Rep. Murray. Murray's bill would correct the condition.

Farmers are Receiving Conservation Payments

Soil conservation checks totaling $125,000 were paid during the last two weeks to Outagamie county farmers who participated in the soil conservation program last year. The checks were distributed at meetings held in the various towns. Some checks have not yet been received from the A.A.A. and farmers who still are to receive their checks will be notified when they arrive. About $25,000 still is to be paid.

Company May Fire Sit-Down Striker, High Court Rules

Common Sense Pronouncement Unexpected, Lawrence Says

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington—The supreme law of the land today is that any worker who engages in or helps anybody else to engage in a sit-down strike or does anything else illegal can be discharged by his employer and need not be rehired.

Thus does the supreme court of the United States, just two years after the first sit-down strikes in the automobile industry, announce to labor and capital the final judgment as to the legal hazards of violence when used in connection with a labor dispute.

One might say that this is a simple pronouncement and merely common sense and should, therefore, not come as a surprise. True enough, it is not unexpected. This correspondent and others pointed out from the very first day the National Relations board ordered the reinstatement of sit-down strikers, once employed by the Fansteel company of Illinois, that the grounds cited by the board were tenuous and probably would not be upheld by the supreme court. Yet the board, confronted with a legal tangle, felt itself duty-bound to fight the issues through to the highest court so that the question might for all times be resolved.

Two Wrongs
The atmosphere, for instance, in which the sit-down strike occurred, was not all one-sided. In this particular case, the employing company had endeavored to interfere with self-organization of employees and had in fact employed a labor spy. The supreme court found this to be a fact. Workers grow bitter and angry beyond description when someone is hired to spy on their meetings secretly and to report who participates. That a provocation to a sit-down strike may have been present is not denied by the supreme court's opinion, but its essence is that two wrongs do not make a right and that it does not promote the peaceful settlement of disputes to condone illegality or violence in any form.

The supreme court points out also that the workers had their chance to prosecute the employer company before the labor board for interfering with union activities and for labor spying, but did not avail themselves of the opportunity till the controversy over the sit-down strike occurred.

Historic Precedent
The Fansteel case will be a historic precedent. It ends all doubt as to the legality of a sit-down strike. For, not only was the Wagner Labor Relations act held to be no safeguard for the sit-down striker, but the supreme court of the United States, on the same day, refused to interfere with the action of the courts of the state of Illinois which had convicted several sit-down strikers for acts of violence and had ordered them to serve jail sentences and pay fines.

The theory that an illegal act cannot be protected under the right to strike is not new in American jurisprudence. What is new is that a "sit-down" has been added to the long list of illegal things which workers cannot do under the guise of a strike.

An important definition, however, by the supreme court with reference to the status of an employee was developed in the Fansteel case, and it relates to the question of whether an employer can dismiss an employee who is on strike for any reason not connected with the labor dispute. The court holds that the right of discharge is absolute and that any employer can discharge his employees at any time and for any reason except one—the quitting of work as a direct consequence of a labor dispute in which the withdrawal from work is lawfully consummated and the grievances are lawfully presented.

Right of Discharge
What the supreme court said in the opinion rendered by Justice Stone, concurring with him, was that the right of discharge has not been limited by the Wagner act when the reasons for discharge have not been limited by the Wagner act when the reasons for discharge are dissociated from the quitting of work in a lawfully conducted strike.

There are other cases decided by the supreme court on Monday relating to rulings of the National Labor Relations board, cases where in the highest court examined the evidence and findings and came to a different conclusion than that of the board. Thus is answered the criticism that the Wagner Labor act decisions in the famous Jones and Laughlin case stagnated the employer-employee relationship and gave workers a continued status as employees subject to reinstatement with pay, irrespective of what may have been the reasons for their quitting of work.

As matters stand today, employees will be cautious to engage in "sit-down" strikes or to do anything else illegal while engaged in a strike otherwise started and conducted lawfully. Illegal picketing or other acts of violence now will become a basis for the refusal of employers to reinstate such workers.

The right to strike has not been limited, but the right to do unlawful acts during a strike has been denounced once more as non-existent by the supreme court of the United States in accordance with the basic principles of American jurisprudence.

Republicans See Victory in 1940

Believe New York, 21 Other States Can be Counted on Washington —(AP)— Looking ahead to the 1940 presidential election, the Republican national committee declared today that its party could win by carrying New York and 21 states which it termed "unquestionably Republican" at present.

The committee said that on the basis of the 1938 election, the following states, with 221 electoral votes, were Republican:

Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island, New Jersey, Delaware, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas, North Dakota, South Dakota, Wyoming and Oregon.

Along with New York's 47 electoral votes, these states could provide a majority in the electoral college. The committee listed New York and Idaho as "loss ups," and said Illinois and Montana, although classified as Democratic, were close to the border-line.

The Republicans have no normal chance of winning control of the senate in 1940 because only 23 Democrats will be up for reelection that year. The Democrats now fill 69 seats—20 more than a bare majority of the senate.

The Republicans, however, are expected to make a strong effort to capture control of the house. The national committee said 65 Republicans defeated for the house last November received more than 45 per cent of the vote.

Council Will Act On City Wages at Meeting Tonight

Decision Expected on Problem of Pay for Commissioners

Kaukauna — The common council will hold its third meeting of the month tonight to pass the salary ordinance for the year. Three problems will confront it.

At the Feb. 21 session the council learned that according to an opinion of John E. Martin, state attorney general, addressed to Calmer Brown, director of the public service commission, members of municipal utility commissions could not receive pay for their services. Kaukauna members receive $7.50 each per month. The council seemed in general to think that the members deserved remuneration, and it was suggested that if the council made no appropriation for them would not their salaries remain as of last year. Harry F. McAndrews, city attorney, will report on this point. It is also thought that the law prohibiting payment may have been passed after the Kaukauna commission was set up and would not be retroactive.

Chief's Salary
Mike Gerhart, chairman of the fire and police commission, was asked at the last meeting to obtain a recommendation from that body as to the salary of the chief of police, and he informed the council that he would present such a recommendation tonight. Gerhart referred the council Feb. 16 to three former salary ordinances, that of Feb. 5, 1935 setting the salary at $2,160 per year, to furnish own "cost" that of Feb. 25, 1936 at $2,160 per year, and that of Feb. 16, 1937 at $1,935 per year. Last year an ordinance passed on Feb. 1 also named $1,935. In addition to the $1,935 the council now allows expenses each month on the chief's car, amounting to about $30. The council has the power to raise salaries, but a recommendation from the fire and police commission is necessary before employees under them may receive a cut.

The wage of a new official, the superintendent of public works, created last year when the north and south road districts were consolidated, also will be set. The amount budgeted is $1,800, and according to all indications the aldermen will so provide. The new official will be appointed in May.

Kaws Will Battle Truckers Tonight

Game Will Be Last for Little's Team This Season

Kaukauna — City cage fans will have their last chance to see the high school team in action here this year tonight as Coach Paul E. Little's men tangle with Clintonville. A brief offensive drill capped by free throw practice this afternoon left the squad ready and anxious for victory No. 7 of the current campaign, which would give them a record of 7 and 7 for the entire year. The Truckers will be seeking to avoid their 26th straight defeat in conference play. Oddly enough, it was here against the Kaws in the 1936 tournament that Clintonville last defeated a conference five, eking out a 1 point victory.

In the 13 games played so far the Kaws have scored 309 points to opponents' 325, an average of 23.7 per game to opponents' 25. Bill Alger added two points against New London last week to continue to place the Kaws with a total of 75, a lead of 19 over Carl Giordana with 56. Alger, who was top man last year, appears to have the honor or clinched for the second time. Both Alger and Giordana are sophomores. Other Kaws in the scoring column for the season are Paul Koch, 47, Don Biseck, 40, Joe Bloch, 38, Junior Swedberg, 31, Willis Ranquette 15, and James Sanders, 4.

Michelson Rites are Held at Funeral Home

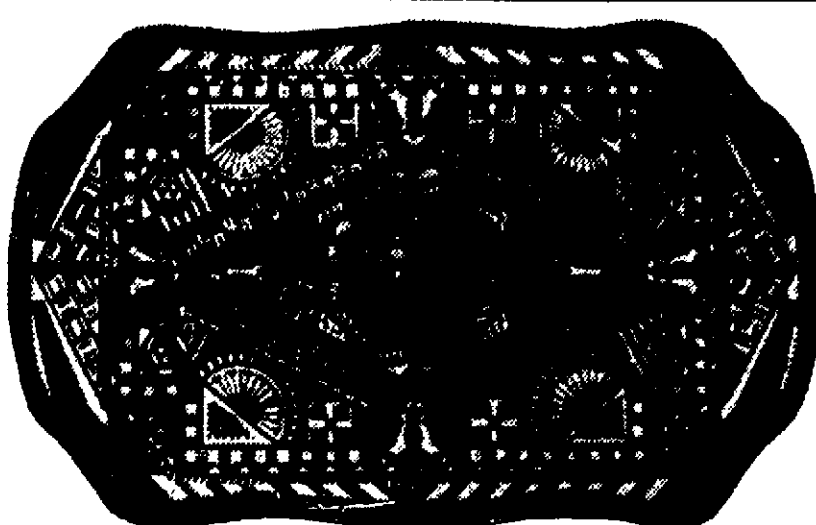

Kaukauna — Funeral services for Martin E. Michelson, 80, 431 Park street, were held at 3 o'clock Monday afternoon at Greenwood funeral home, with the Rev. John Scheib in charge. Burial was in Union cemetery.

Bearers were Roland Osborn, William Meloy, Dr. E. A. Mayer, Earl Wandell, John Muir and John Schubring. Honorary bearers were Charles Specht, F. M. Hishon, Herman Paschen, Dan Hishon, John Mulholland and Mike Sadler. Out of town people at the services were Mrs. A. J. Macorrie of Milwaukee, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Michelson and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph DeGuerre of Manitowish.

Kaukauna Scouters to Hold Lumberjack Party

Kaukauna — A lumber jack party at Gardner Day is planned for Saturday and Sunday by scoutmasters district officers, scout committee members and their wives of the Kaukauna district. Arrangements for the week-end affair are being made by Joseph McCarthy and Ed Rennecke, district chairman.

The Kaukauna office of the Appleton Post-Crescent is located in the Jules Mertes barbershop on Wisconsin avenue. William Dowling is the correspondent in charge and the telephone number is 107. Subscribers may call this number until 6:30 in the evening if their papers were not delivered.

Shown above is a likeness of an inlaid table top containing 5,100 separate pieces of wood glued together by Leon F. Schulz, Seymour. The wood for the table top came from four continents, North America, South America, Europe, Asia, and several tropical islands. The design is an original one created by the builder. Varieties of wood in the top include black walnut, American walnut, rosewood, satinwood, red mahogany, padouk mahogany, white pine, red maple, sumac, Tennessee red cedar, padouk and ebony. The completed table top shows a wealth of colors including red, yellow, purple, tan, orange, white, black, green, brown, grey and various combinations in natural wood colors. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Crew of 100 Now Working on Kaukauna's Utility Project

Kaukauna — With 13 new WPA workers put on yesterday a total of 100 are now employed on Kaukauna's new power job which moves into its fifth week of activity. Most of the men are working on excavating the 85-foot channel immediately below the Patten mill. The channel will extend at least 65-foot length for about 600 feet and then flare out under to complete its 1,200-foot length before emptying into the Fox river. The channel excavation, with six drills preparing blasts daily, will be completed in about 10 weeks, according to Cy Driessen, foreman. The drills are operated through a compressor at the quarry north of Patten. About 350 cubic yards of the hard rock is taken out each day and used to level what will be the north bank of the channel.

Four trucks are in use now and another may be added soon. Workers now go on duty in 8-hour shifts, and it is expected that beginning March 9, 16-hour shifts will be used, Driessen said. Flood lights have been erected if night work becomes necessary.

Others to Report
Six more WPA workers have been directed to report to the project and have until Wednesday to do so. This will bring the number employed to 106. Four men were transferred to the Strasburg sewer project last week.

A machine shop has been set up in a shed east of the Patten plant and a tool shed provided for storing equipment. Another shed is used by the workers during the noon hour. The WPA office is in the quarters formerly occupied by the Patten mill office. James O. Legros is the WPA superintendent of the project.

After the excavation of the channel is finished the men will begin work on the dam above Patten's mill. A small crew is now working on the far east end of the project to insure that Thimany Pulp and Paper company's lower mill has an adequate water supply while the excavating is going on, Driessen said.

New Bicycle Laws At Kaukauna Will Be Enforced Mar. 1

Registration Required for All Wheels After
Tomorrow

Kaukauna — With 100 bicycles registered by Kaukauna police the two bicycle ordinances passed recently by the common council go into effect tomorrow, March 1. Licenses issued during February by police will be valid until Feb. 28, 1940. Riders may continue to register at the police station on Saturdays. Bicycles ridden from tomorrow on without the proper identification will be violating the ordinances.

The measures provide penalties of not more than $25 or imprisonment in the county jail for not more than 30 days for violations. A bicycle safety club is to be organized in connection with the ordinances, with actual penalties much less harsh.

25-Cent Charge
All bicycles in the city must be registered, and the rider's name, address and description of his wheel given. An identification tag is then affixed and a charge of 25 cents made. No bicycles will be registered if they have mechanical defects. All changes of ownership must be registered within 10 days.

It is provided that riders must stop at all stop signs and obey stop and go signals, and as much as possible avoid the busy streets. No wheels are to be parked on sidewalks or roadways as to interfere with free passage by the public. It is unlawful to ride on the side walks, and riders on streets shall ride as near as practicable within 5 feet of the right hand curb.

To Check Constipation Get at Its Cause!

If constipation has you down so you feel heavy, tired and dopey, it's time you did something about it. And something more than just taking a physic! You should get at the cause of the trouble.

If you eat the super-refined food most people eat, the chances are the difficulty is simple—you don't get enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean heavy food. It's a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines.

If this common form of constipation is your trouble, eat Kellogg's All-Bran for breakfast every day and drink plenty of water. All-Bran isn't a medicine—it's a crunchy, toasted, nutritious cereal. And it will help you not only to get regular but to keep regular, day after day. Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. Sold by every grocer.

ABANDONING ANOTHER "OLD FOGEY" NOTION

Selecting Washington's birthday to cast aside the last vestige of the first President's warnings against European entanglements, the Roosevelt administration displayed something of a brass countenance with a smirk of contempt at American traditions that have been so long honored.

We now have to compare General Washington's farewell address with Ambassador Bullitt's official reassurance of the French nation delivered at Paris at a Washington birthday banquet which in fact was a desecration of the name of Washington, but is in accord with the prevailing foreign policy of our nation.

A direct comparison may indicate how far and in what direction we have drifted. In respect to America's relation with other nations the first President wrote:

"Against the insidious wiles of foreign influence the jealousy of a free people ought to be constantly awake, since history and experience prove that foreign influence is one of the most baneful foes of Republican government."

Our polished diplomat to the Quai d'Orsay, speaking directly to Premier Daladier, declared that our geographical isolation was ended and that the protection bestowed on our great nation by the oceans did not longer exist.

We do not know how anyone could more plainly imply that America's frontiers were upon the Rhine than this ambassador.

Smoothly talking about "a problem of United States defense" and mixing it with the veritable promise of "a growing apprehension" among the American people that they will be drawn into the next European war was this gentleman's polished method of practically destroying everything to which the last twenty-five years of Washington's life had been devoted.

We are not unmindful of the weaknesses in the policy of General Washington. First, it is 140 years of age. That fact alone infuriates the modern planners. Anything at all that happened prior to the year 1 New Deal, from which all time should be reckoned, is the subject of suspicion at least.

Our first departure from the Washington policy was in 1917. The tragic consequences of that blunder might defer cautious men from repeating it. But we are not dealing with cautious men. We have before us nothing but New Dealers. Caution, to them, is a sign of the horse and buggy days. They are upholders of the 390-mile-an-hour bombers. Their feeling towards Washington and all who still cling to the first twelve decades of American history is a mixture of pity and revulsion, something on the order of a society glamour girl's appraisal of a scullion maid.

This Administration is not only entirely reckless with American rights and lives but is hazzarding something more with which it does not reckon at all.

The French people are now pretty well convinced that America is ready to unsheathe the sword for them any day. They have seen our President threatening all manner of dire consequences to their enemies, even to starving them. And Mr. Bullitt has just given them to understand that the American people, upon careful thought and consideration, have practically concluded that in case of another European struggle we feel incapable of keeping out of it, a feeling somewhat akin to that of the set doing his best to walk past the whisky bottle without taking a swig but realizing that he will soon be guzzling.

So when France goes to war tomorrow, as she may, forty million Frenchmen are going to look to the west for American transports and the American navy.

And if the Americans don't come, after all these plain implications, we will become the greatest slacker or runner-out in history.

Our first interference in European wars brought us the title of the Greatest Skylock. If we don't get into the next, after all this talk about don't-hold-me-back-I-want-to-fight, we may be crowned King of Welshes.

But anyway, in the meantime, we are through with Washington except for an occasional banquet and some school exercises.

LABOR FOR GERMANY

The effort to get German-American mechanics to return to Germany is interesting. It is said that Detroit, Chicago, Cleveland, and other industrial centers are being combed for skilled workers. There is a special demand for automobile mechanics, machinists, engineers, electricians, bricklayers and carpenters. German agents are engaged in rounding up such workmen and arranging for their transportation to the old country.

The men engaged are said to be guaranteed jobs when they reach Germany. They must pay their own transportation, but get low rates on German ships. The pay, however, seems small by American standards, probably averaging 40 to 50 cents an hour. That might appeal to men needing jobs, but the chief factor is probably homesickness for the old country, or in many cases sympathy for the present regime.

One of the agents employing such men says: "They get good quarters and all the privileges now enjoyed by German workers. Why should German mechanics starve in America when they can get good jobs in Germany? What is wrong in that?"

Nothing, perhaps, if the soliciting is above-board and the candidates are told the truth. Otherwise there would soon be a lot of disillusioned German-Americans wishing they were back in George Washington's country.

The matter is interesting to Americans in general because it suggests a labor scarcity in Germany produced by extreme concentration of man-power on preparations for war.

ARCTIC COOPERATION

The scientists aboard that Soviet ice-breaker drifting around in the Arctic Sea near the North Pole report an unexpected "wealth of living organisms" in the northernmost waters. They have found microscopic animal and vegetable life, which serves as food for higher life, in considerable abundance both on the surface and at depths of 10,000 feet. They observed a mother polar bear with two cubs as far north as the eighty-fifth parallel.

All this is interesting. Peter Freuchen, the Danish explorer who has written much about that northern region, remarks casually in a current magazine article that he expects the Arctic to be frequented by tourists before long. It has become so easy to get there, in comparison with the long and laborious travel, mostly on foot, of earlier days.

These Russian observations suggest that there will be something to see besides snow, ice and cold water. The Russians, according to Freuchen, are doing the best Arctic research of the present time. Furthermore, exploration is one of the few truly international activities. All explorers make their findings public at once and share them with all who are interested. Every exploring party has the experience and information of preceding groups to help it. It is a pity that sort of cooperation is not applied universally.

RENEWING FORESTS

At an average cost of only $10 an acre, the forest service of the United States last year set out more than 140,000,000 trees in various National Forests in 31 states. These planting projects began the work of restoring to productivity 154,268 acres of deforested land. Forest service officials say that private planting often costs less than public because of the greater accessibility of the land as compared with many federal planting areas. Yet the public plantings will be worth many times their original cost in timber when the trees reach maturity and will be worth much more in the meantime in soil and water conservation.

Forest planting should be a continuous process. The devastation wrought by the New England hurricane last autumn was evidence of the natural hazards that forests suffer. Even worse, year in and year out, is the destruction of fires, too often caused by human carelessness.

An earlier factor, crude and ruthless lumbering methods, has been greatly improved. Many lumber companies now carry on reforestation work along with the cutting. But we have a long way to go in planting trees and protecting forests before we can compensate for the great waste of this resource in the development of America.

HELP THE FORGETTERS

Drake University in Des Moines, Iowa, probably has no more than its share of absent-minded professors, but students there seem to be the first who have decided to do something about it. Something helpful, that is.

The editors of the Drake Times-Delphic, student newspaper, now plan to establish a foundation for absent-minded faculty members. The foundation will present each of these amiable creatures with a certificate and a piece of string. No doubt the certificate will make its bearer eligible for help in any embarrassing situation his forgetfulness has brought about — if he remembers to present it. The string's purpose is well known.

Eventually, perhaps, the foundation may be strong enough to carry on important research into the causes of professional absent-mindedness and even discover cures and preventives. These discoveries could be used outside of the scholastic world, too, to aid absent-minded husbands and other humans suffering from the same ailment. There's something to look forward to.

—DALE HARRISON'S—
In Old New York

Chicago (En route Westward from New York) — It was here in Chicago, years ago when I was callow, that I am now (if such be possible) that one of my numerous adolescent amours faw down and go boom.

I was pursuing at the time the same young lady who, if you recall from last Monday, I had "saved" from the lake. I had about five dollars in cash, so I figured I was in a position to talk matrimony. We talked, and she expressed a willingness to become engaged. In anticipation of her acquiescence I had wheedled my sister into "lending" me a little diamond ring, worth about $60, and when Beatrice said "yes" I proudly placed the circle on whatever finger I could find that it fit.

Both of us were still going to high school, but a little thing like that would hardly have kept us from wedding bells. The young lady, however, paused when she contemplated my $5, and opined it was hardly sufficient to launch ourselves into life's hurly-burly. So I rather grudgingly agreed temporarily to be engaged.

I departed from her house and went forth to see Chicago with my $5. The placards advertising the burlesque show at the Star and Garter theatre on West Madison street, intrigued me. Afterwards I wandered into a restaurant, and finally into two or three of those cheap amusement houses on South State street.

About 1 A.M. I came to the dismaying realization that my $5 was gone, that I had no railroad ticket home, that I was cold and had no place to sleep.

It is no sense to linger over the following two days during which I got very hungry and very tired. City streets lose their charm when necessity dictates that you walk them on an empty stomach and tired feet.

I began to figure how to get home. My mind turned avariciously to the diamond ring I had, under the hypnotism of alleged love, turned over so carelessly to Beatrice. If only I could get that ring back I could pawn it and get enough money to go home.

Finally I hit upon a scheme to get the ring. The girl lived in Austin, which is about eight miles out from Chicago's loop. I had no carfare, so I walked out. Late in the afternoon, so weary I could barely navigate, I arrived. The girl was surprised to see me, for she had assumed I had entrained for home two days before.

It was obviously impolitic to ask her to lend me the ring so I could pawn it. I had, to use finesse, I did. I was no sooner inside the house than I began to find fault with everything. I implied rather pointedly that I regretted having asked her hand in marriage. (My heart was breaking at such duplicity, but please remember I was very hungry.)

Tears welled in her eyes. I couldn't blame her. I was being very candid, and she didn't know I hadn't been in a bed or tasted food for two days. Then came anger — the anger of woman scorned.

"Very well," she said. "The engagement is broken. Here is your ring." She held it toward me, and I'm afraid I snatched it with more fervor than the drama of the occasion required.

I grabbed my hat and dashed out. I remember she stood in the door, her eyes wet but her face held high.

With the ring in my hand but not a cent in my pockets, I had to walk the eight miles back to the city, and it was middle evening when I came at last to a pawn-shop that was still open.

I remember there were four men, that they were gathered together at the rear of the store, and that they were shooting craps. They seemed annoyed at my entrance. One of them took a quick look at the ring.

"I'll give you three dollars for it," he said with finality.

I was too weary to argue. I did tell him that the railroad fare back to Paw Paw was $3.58, and suggested that he should give me at least that much; but he wouldn't.

I took the $3, went over to the Twelfth Street station and bought a ticket to the nearest place to Paw Paw that $3 would take me. It happened to be Dowagiac. When I got there I had 25 more miles to cover, and I walked them.

Later I wrote to Beatrice and explained everything, but she wasn't interested. My sister was provoked at my selling her ring, and I was ashamed of the whole affair. I will always say, though, that they certainly had a jolly good show at the Star and Garter.

A Verse for Today

By Anne Campbell

A CUP OF COFFEE

The fragrance of fresh coffee
Precedes me down the stair.
There is no perfume sweeter.
It lures me to my chair.

Alas! life looks brighter.
The day and I cheer up.
As sunshine floods the windows
Before I lift my cup.

The table is laid simply.
The cloth is snowy white.
The bouquet of marjoram
Gleams in the morning light.
The toast is crisp and golden.
The coffee clear and good.
I will enjoy my blessings
In happy solitude.

The fragrance of fresh coffee
Is not the least of these Benign and simple blessings
That point life's harmonies
I face the day with courage.
And envy no one's lot
Because my morning coffee
Is freshly made and hot!

A Bystander
In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER

Washington—So eager is the Administration to do away with the exemption that the state and federal governments enjoy from each other's taxes that it is almost running over itself.

In fact it now stands before the Supreme Court both for and against the proposition. One of its more remote "left hands" away out in Utah didn't know what the "right hand" in Washington was doing.

Soon the court is to begin hearing the appeal of the New York State Tax Commission from a decision of state courts holding that the salary of James O'Keefe, an attorney in New York for the Home Owners Loan Corporation, could not be taxed by the state.

The New York commission may have been skating on thin ice when it moved in on the case, as the states generally have been trying to escape a change in the Supreme Court rulings which held that the states and federal governments could not tax one another's employees.

But the state came in on a special proposition. It argued that O'Keefe was not truly an employee of the Government but an employee of a Government corporation, HOLC. O'Keefe, claiming exemption, won the battle in state courts. The tax commission appealed.

Immediately the federal Government intervened, happy at a chance to ask the Supreme Court to overrule its 67-year-old decision.

Yes. And No.

The fact that Congress has done nothing in those years to eliminate the exemption does not prove that it sanctions them, argued the Government, speaking through Solicitor General Robert Jackson.

But out in Utah a somewhat similar case developed. W. Q. Van Holt, an attorney by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, claimed exemption from state income taxes. He won in the state courts. Utah appealed.

Van Cott argued that Congress, by ignoring the exemption for 69 years, had indicated that it DOES sanction the exemption. That was directly opposite to Jackson's position in the O'Keefe case.

In any event the Supreme Court will hear the two arguments together early in March.

The New York law specifically exempts federal salaries from taxation but the state tax commission argues that O'Keefe is an employee of an agency that is "non-essential." HOLC is really a federal mortgage bank.

Would Mean A Lot

The federal government insists that HOLC, even though not strictly governmental, nevertheless is a real federal agency.

The Government argues that O'Keefe could be taxed if it were not for the state law.

Van Cott, out in Utah, however, takes the position that because he is a federal officer holder he can't be taxed.

If the Supreme Court should reverse itself, thousands of state employees would at once be subject to federal income taxes. And likely enough the states and Congress would lose no time opening up federal salaries to state taxation.

Already the house has passed a bill approving such taxation.

Originally the court held such taxation of one by the other was a dangerous and unconstitutional violation of the sovereignty of state and nation.

Well, I'll tell you by BOB BURNS

Hollywood—I see where a guy out in Russellville, Kentucky, put electric lights in his hen house and a derrick didn't lay an egg shaped like an electric light bulb.

I told Grandpa Snaazy about that and he said, "Shucks, that ain't nothing!" I used to put white door knobs under my hens to give 'em something to aim at. One of my settin' hens was near-sighted and I tried to hatch that door knob with a batch of eggs.

"Well, sir, all them eggs hatched and I needed the door knob, so I took it out from under the hen. She made an awful fuss about it, but I took it jes' the same and put it on the kitchen door. That night I heard a heck of a commotion and I got up to investigate. You know what? On my reputation as the most truthful man in Arkansas, there was that mother hen, with her hens' feet a-climbin' to the keyhole, hakin' up under the hen, she was gonna hatch the blame thing or she tryin'!"

The lieutenant governor has been doing his job, presiding over a temperamental, politically hybrid state senate.

Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

Noted Physician and Author

FOOD COOKED AS YOU LIKE

The kindly old water who took good care of us knew not only what we liked but sometimes advised what would be good for us.

So when we had lobster for dinner he was obviously disturbed when one of the party asked for ice cream. Finally he made an opportunity to inquire in a whisper whether he should bring the ice cream regardless of the combination.

The wonder is that there are not many more such superstitions or obsessions in view of the dense ignorance of the educated class concerning physiology. People who seriously believe in "indigestion" must logically place more or less credence in these legends.

Still quite popular is the notion that a raw egg is more easily digested or more nutritious in some way than a cooked egg, and the companion fancy that a soft boiled or poached egg is easier to digest or even a healthy person than a hard boiled, fried or scrambled egg.

A great many people who purport to be intelligent imagine very rare, undercooked meat, especially beef, is more digestible and more nutritious or even "strengthening" than the same meat would be well done.

Not a few old timers still cherish the fancy that beef juice, beef soup, beef extract, beef broth or bouillon is quite nourishing.

There is the common and persistent idea that cheese is "binding" and "indigestible."

All of these beliefs are wrong. If milk and fish or shellfish and ice cream appeal to your taste they are as digestible taken together as either item is taken separately.

By actual study of the digestive process it has been found that a cooked egg digests rather more promptly and completely than a raw egg does. And an egg boiled solid is better prepared for digestion than is an egg boiled soft. If one prefers fried egg to egg cooked in other ways, that is the best way to take the egg. The taboo against "fried food" is merely a bit of hokum used by charlatans to impress wisecracking customers. Fried food, caloric for caloric, is quite as readily digestible as is food cooked in any other way.

The rare meat and beef broth or beef juice delusion is another old time theory. We know now that you simply can't get the nourishment of beef in liquid form. The soup, broth, juice or other liquid obtained from beef contains only the salt (common table salt) and the extractives which have flavor but are of little or no value as food. The soup or fluid is a stimulant but not a food and will not sustain or nourish a feeble person.

Not only is cheese any kind you like, not binding, but no wholesome food you can name is binding. All food is more or less laxative, some things more, others less active in that way. Any and every kind of cheese is deserving of the name of health food, and NOT only that, but it is one of the most economical foods any one can buy.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Gain a Stall
Son, 18, 69 inches tall, 145 pounds, freshman in college spends four hours in travel to and from college each school day has two to three hours home work each night, and trains each day after class as member of track team. He has lost 12 pounds in three months (M. E. A.)

Answer—Probably he is "going stale." Too exacting a schedule is there no medical supervision of the training in the college. This boy badly needs medical advice.

Chemical Preservative
Is it harmful to eat daily oleomargarine containing 1-10th of 1 per cent benzoate of soda? Will it cause the finger joints to swell? (E. H. P.)

Answer—Personally I'd prefer to go unenriched rather than take any food containing a chemical preservative. But so far as I know, this preservative does not cause the finger joints to swell. Good oleo-margarine neither requires nor contains a preservative.

Lemon Is Food
Have been taking juice of a lemon in glass of water every morning before breakfast, and I feel fine, but several people have told me it is dangerous, as it forms too much acid in my system. (Mrs. W. T.)

Answer—It is perfectly healthful if you like it, and it forms no acid, on the contrary it tends to increase alkalinity.

Hunt Practical Joker Who Told Workers to Wreck New Dwelling

Richmond, Calif. — (AP) — A building inspector called up George Crooks to find out why he hadn't taken out a permit to wreck his house. "Wreck it?" exploded Crooks. "Good heavens, I was going to move in tomorrow."

The wrecking crew said a man ordered "tear the whole thing down to the ground" stood by while the job got well started, then said he would be back later.

Crooks is looking for the practical joker.

N.R.L.B. Regional Head Suspended for Speech

Los Angeles — (AP) — Dr. Towne Nylander, suspended as regional director of the national labor relations board because of a newspaper's account of one of his speeches, said today he had tried to correct what he termed "the garbled nature of the story."

Dr. Nylander's address was delivered Feb. 8 in suburban Inglewood. A report of it in the Inglewood News by Managing Editor Roy Rosenberg was placed in the congressional record Friday by Rep. Ford, (R-Calif.).

Rosenberg said the official had not questioned his quotations of the speech including one that "when we go into a hearing, the employer hasn't got a chance."

Dr. Nylander, however, produced a carbon copy of a letter he said he wrote Feb. 9, protesting to the managing editor against "flagrant violation of journalistic ethics."

Check Citizenship of Men on WPA Projects

With 75 per cent of the citizenship certificates returned from WPA workers in the county, only one person has been found who is not eligible for WPA work, according to Lyle Webster, supervising timekeeper. Under a new ruling, all persons who have not received their second papers of citizenship are not eligible to be employed on WPA projects.

A check is being made with each worker signing a certificate. The certificates are due at the county WPA headquarters Monday. Workers may turn their certificates in to the timekeeper on the project who will forward them to the county office.

TRAFFIC AND HAMPERING COMMUNICATION
Virtually the whole state felt its blasts, although central and northern Iowa appeared the worst hit.

Street car traffic was at a standstill. Roads were blocked. Planes were grounded and buses tied up in many cities.

Railroads reported most trains were getting through but said any increase in wind velocity would pile up impassable drifts.

The heavy snow continued to swirl down with no let-up in sight by mid-morning.

Apparently the heaviest fall was at Audubon, in the central-western section, where 17 inches of snow fell in 12 hours, driven by a 40-mile wind.

Charles City and Mount Airy—the one in the extreme northern part of the state and the other in the south-central section—reported 16 inches of snow.

Des Moines had 12 inches shortly before 9 o'clock a. m. with more snow falling and gusty winds piling up heavy drifts.

The previous February record here was 12.2 inches in 1912. The weather bureau said it had no doubt the snowfall would exceed 13 inches.

The bureau reported the storm was spreading rapidly eastward into Wisconsin and Michigan, and that Kansas and Nebraska were also heavily blanketed.

Regret Over Killing Doe Leads Men to Confess Act to Warden

New London—William Smith, 55, Royallton, and three of his hunting companions said in court today that conscience pangs drove them to report the killing of a doe three weeks ago to George Whalen, Waupeca county conservation warden. Smith's conscience cost him a fine of $50 and costs this morning before Police Justice Fred J. Rogers. He was ordered to pay an additional $25, a levy the state imposes for a deer carcass, and a new shotgun valued at $75 was taken away from him.

According to the story told by the men in court, the four were out hunting fox three weeks ago in the town of Wyoming. The dogs came across a doe and Smith shot it impulsively. The men divided the meat among themselves. Remorse over their act finally conquered, the men said, one declaring he "couldn't sleep nights." They reported the illegal killing to Whalen. Shooting a deer any time is unlawful in Waupeca county, because there is no open season.

Altogether, the matter is going to cost Smith over $150. But his companions promised to help him pay and the court granted him until March 10 to clean up the debt. The alternative is six months in the county jail.

U. S. Expected to Give Recognition To General Franco and other government leaders in the one-fourth of Spain remaining under their control.

Though it was not known whether resistance would be continued, against the nationalists the battle fronts of central Spain were quiet.

France and Britain, hoping to counteract German and Italian influence through recognizing Franco, gained little solace from the generalissimo's speech, yesterday when he acknowledged formal diplomatic recognition by the democracies.

"In these moments of triumph," Franco said, "we give our friendship and remembrance . . . to those who believed in us from the first day," mentioning Portugal, Germany and Italy by name.

His words furnished ammunition for parliamentary critics of Prime Minister Chamberlain. In the house of commons laborites and liberals joined forces attempting to pass a vote of censure against Chamberlain's government for recognizing Franco.

At the same time British naval estimates were announced indicating that special attention was being paid to empire defenses. The admiralty asked for £153,666,881 (about $383,400) for the fiscal year starting April 1, an increase over the previous year's expenditures of £123,707,000 ($281,535,000).

CALLS CONFERENCE

Madrid — (AP) — Premier Juan Negrin of republican Spain summoned his cabinet today for a "most important" conference in an eastern Spanish village, the name of which was undisclosed.

Madrid's besieged population, including four cabinet members, remained uninformed, meanwhile, of the recognition the British and French governments accorded yesterday to the republic of nationalist Generalissimo Francisco Franco.

They were still in the dark also regarding Manuel Azana's resignation, announced in France today, as president of republican Spain.

The cabinet call came after lengthy conference on the entire republican situation earlier today when, it was reported, the ministers reached no decision regarding the pressing problem before them, including possible surrender to Franco, continuance of the 31-month-old civil war.

2 Youths Arraigned On Charges of Auto Thefts and Larceny

Two Appleton youths, 17 and 18 years of age, were arraigned in municipal court of Judge Thomas H. Ryan yesterday afternoon on four counts, two charging grand larceny and two charging operation of a car without the owner's consent.

Preliminary hearing was set for 2 o'clock next Tuesday afternoon. Bond of $500 was set and one of the youths was unable to furnish it and is being held at the county jail.

The youths were arrested at Menasha Saturday after a police broadcast on a stolen car. Chief of Police George T. Prim said the youths confessed taking cars owned by John Balliet, 2 Brookway place, and Mrs. Pauline Butler, 702 N. Division street and taking articles from cars owned by Thomas Schneider, 115 W. Lawrence street, and Miss Gertrude Kern, 703 N. Clark street.

Congress and the people are not consulted until the United States has one foot on foreign soil."

"Fancy Slogans"

"When it is too late to be neutral, congress is asked to rubber-stamp a declaration of war, and the people are lured by fancy slogans about fighting to end all war and save democracy. After the supreme sacrifice is made, democracy is destroyed and the peace settlement lays the groundwork for the next war."

LaFollette expressed the view a war referendum "would give the chief executive pause lest he step farther toward the deep end than the citizens are ready to go."

"Popular veto power," he continued, "would not hamper the chief executive in any foreign policy supported by public opinion."

"On the contrary, it would encourage him to take the people into his confidence on matters of the gravest international concern."

Candidates Must File Their Campaign Costs

Health Officer Warns People Against Wave Of Influenza Cases

Neenah—Cautioning persons with colds or illness, however slight, to stay home and call a physician to avoid flu complications, one of the city health officers, Dr. Frank Brunckhorst, Neenah health officer, said this morning that citizens should avoid large crowds and public places and homes where there is illness. The state law regarding influenza states that children should remain out of school 10 days or at least four consecutive days after temperature is normal. Danger of spreading the disease if persons go back to work or to school too soon is pronounced.

Many teachers and students of the Neenah public school system are ill with the flu and several nurses and nursing aides at Theda Clark hospital are confined to their homes, according to reports. The Twin City Visiting Nurse association staff is more than busy with calls at homes because of flu cases. Teachers classes at Oshkosh State Teachers college have been cancelled because of illness among instructors.

VETERAN FANCY SKATER AT 15

15-Year-Old Neenah Sophomore Girl Is Crack Speed and Fancy Skater but Prefers Swimming

Neenah—A champion skater who prefers swimming is Virginia Morrison, 15-year-old daughter of Tom Morrison, 207 E. Doty avenue, a sophomore in Neenah High school, who has taken honors in the National and Illinois speed-skating championships.

Virginia who wishes she would stop growing (she's 5 feet 6) has been skating since she was two years old and at that age could do the toe-run, edge, pineapple, wheel roll, pivot and aeroplane. Her father who is a skating instructor and was a famous exhibition skater in his day, taught his daughter all the intricacies of figure skating that has brought her the plaudits of many, including Sonja Henie with whom she skated at the Arena in Chicago this winter when Sonja Henie held her ice review.

Virginia likes to figure skate the best of any skating reporter but there was a time, just last year, when speed skating interested her chiefly and she copped first place honors in competition in Green Bay and other Wisconsin cities after which she entered the National and Illinois speed-skating contests. She has taken both the senior and junior speed championship of eastern Wisconsin counties, defeating contestants of all ages. Last year was her first year on speed skates.

Shows in Many Cities
When Virginia was 10 years old she took first in the Chicago free-for-all junior races. She has skated in figure exhibitions since she was three, performing in many cities in the middle west as well as at Chicago stadium, coliseum and arena and state and national championships.

That she likes figure skating the best is evidenced by her performances on the ice, the grace and ease with which she handles herself and her "invention" of "shooting the duck" backwards. "Shooting the duck" is intricate enough to perform in the ordinary front and straight style but Virginia does it backwards in circular motion.

Miss Morrison who thinks tap dancing on skates is babyish, would like to be an instructor in physical education but if she should get a chance to skate professionally, she won't refuse.

Neenah, Menasha Cagers Will Meet In League Finale

Bluejays Will Invade Neenah Gymnasium Saturday Night

Menasha—Neenah and Menasha High schools will close their Northwestern Wisconsin conference basketball seasons Saturday night when the Bluejays invade the Neenah High school gymnasium. In addition to the natural Twin City rivalry to add interest to the game, the Red Rockets need a victory Saturday night to clinch a tie for the conference championship. The varsity game is scheduled to start at 9 o'clock and will be preceded by two preliminary games.

The Red Rockets will enter the tilt as favorites for they already have scored a 34 to 21 victory over the Jays and have won 10 games and lost one. The Menasha record of four victories and seven defeats. However, the Jays cannot be discounted too lightly for a victory would alone for an indifferent season.

The Jays have defeated Kaukauna and last week ran up a 31 to 20 victory over West DePere. Although they did not defeat Shawano, they did play two bang-up games against the Indians and came very close winning the last one, dropping a 26 to 22 decision. Contrasted against those games, however, the Jays have played some miserable basketball. The Jays are a better team than they were when they lost to Neenah the first time.

Landskron Is High Hefty Henry Landskron Still Is Top Scorer for the Jays

Hefty Henry Landskron still is the top scorer for the Jays. He added nine points against West DePere to run his totals to 25 field goals and 12 free throws for 62 points. Just two points behind is Harry Zelinske with 60 points on 21 field goals and 18 free throws. William Resch has accounted for 54 points on 25 field goals and four free throws while the fourth high scorer is Douglas Anderson with 36 on 17 field goals and a free throw. Landskron also tops the personal foul column with 26 miscues charged against him.

The preliminary game between the reserve teams of the two schools is expected to excite almost as much interest as the varsity tilt. The Neenah reserves lost only one game this season and that was to the Menasha Bees by a 22 to 18 count. The Menasha reserves have won eight games and lost three. The Neenah Bees have won 10 and lost only one.

Most German-Americans Disinterested in Bund, Congressman Keeffe Says

Washington — Representative Keeffe (R-Wis.) told the house yesterday most German-Americans had no interest in the German Bund.

He also questioned sincerity of recent administration expressions of interest in business and the propriety of appointing Thomas R. Amle, former Progressive representative from Wisconsin, to the interstate commerce commission.

Keeffe questioned the necessity for "inflammatory" speeches in the house against bund activities unless care was used to preclude their being interpreted as applying to all German-Americans.

Representative Enzel (R-Mich.) said he served as an officer in the thirty-second division, comprising Wisconsin and Michigan troops, and 20 per cent of the names of officers on the roll of his company were those of German-Americans.

Hollywood — The highschool girl who lives next door has a "crush" on Donald Woods. At least once a week she calls over the backyard fence to ask what picture he's playing in and, having noted the title, she waits for the release of that film as greedily as a kitten waits for its daily dish of cream. Last Sunday she went to the theatre, starchy-eyed — and came home spitting indignation.

Her hero had only appeared momentarily. "Why?" she demanded, "do studios star duds like Tyrone Power and Robert Taylor (both second-raters in her estimation) when there are men like Donald Woods in Hollywood?"

I assured her it was her fault and tried to explain something that no one far in a million seems to realize. The girl next door — and the millions of other girls just like her — are the final arbiters of every actor's fate. They can make stars, or break stars, just as they please — and the only thing required in the process is a definite expression of their likes and dislikes to the neighborhood exhibitor. When the theater owners are once convinced of a public want they lose no time in making it known to the film salesmen, who pass it on to the exchange owners, who relay it to the producers. And the producers, beseeched dependent upon the public's approval, have no choice but to obey the mandates.

Since our talk, the girl next door has not only been conferring with our neighborhood exhibitor, but she's writing notes to all the other theatre-owners in our district. She borrowed my typewriter this morning — and I think Donald Woods' stock is due for a gain.

Idol Chatter: Margaret Sullivan will remember "Three Comrades" because it got her an Academy Award nomination, but the rest of the world will remember it because it put cinematic hair on Robert Taylor's chest. You'd be astonished if you saw Shirley Temple and her mama together — they look that much alike. Rosemary Lane would be the screen's greatest singing star if Warner Brothers would let her do her warbling in a swim suit. Studios in versatility: George Murphy — having scored with his singing, dancing and acting, he's now writing scenarios.

Randolph Scott always looks as though he's about to say something profound — but he never does. If you rate yourself as a first class movie fan, try naming the ten biggest stars of 1939. Joan Bennett's press agent insists her black wig has completely changed her personality — he didn't say whether it's for the better or for worse. Look alike: Dorothy Arnold. Universal's new contractee, and Carole Lombard. It's Richard Greene's voice, not his dimples, that gets the fans.

Ask ten people at random who Jeanette MacDonald's husband is — and nine of 'em will snap back "Nelson Eddy." Grace Moore's voice is a contralto melody when she's happy — rattle her temple, and it sears to a high "C." Even a casual comment on the weather, as made by Charlie Bickford, has an "I-dare-you-to-disagree" note. Observations: the kick a newcomer gets out of Hollywood is usually just the first of a painful barrage. Marie Wilson tells me her favorite desert is ice cream à la mode!

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, searching for a youngster to play Johnny Russell's son in "Tarzan in Exile," specified a five year old — and ultimately signed a screen novice named Johnny Sheffield, who Immediately developed a severe case of hero-worship for the brawny "Tarzan." Everything that big Johnny did, little Johnny tried to do — and always Welsmuller tried to restrain the limitation by pointing out that five-year-olds mustn't be too frisky. Little Johnny finally cracked under the strain. "Listen," he whispered, "now that mama's signed the contract, I guess it'll be all right for me to tell you that I'm really seven-and-a-half."

Conversation overheard — on the ballroom set built for "Man of Conquest": 1st Extra — "This set must have cost a lot of dough — maybe fifty grand." He turns to his companion: "Would you sell your chances in this picture racket for that?" 2nd Extra — "I'd sell 'em for a thousand dollars in a very great amount of money." The second extra is Alexis Novinsky, once Captain-Commander in the Imperial Russian Navy. He sacrificed a fortune of better than a million when he fled the Revolution in 1920.

I like the story about the starlet who announced to her casting director-husband that she was expecting the stork. "Don't be silly," snapped the absent minded husband. "You're not the type!" (Copyright, 1939)

Appleton Priest Is Selected For Missionary Work at Guam

THE REV. Theophane Thoma, O. M. Cap., of St. Joseph's monastery, is one of six Capuchin priests from this province who have been appointed foreign missionaries and who will leave soon for distant lands. Father Theophane will go to the island of Guam in the Pacific ocean, together with the Rev. Ferdinand Stippich, Detroit, Mich., and the Rev. Xavier Marquette, Huntington, Ind. The other three will go to the Bluefields, Nicaragua, in Central America.

Father Theophane whose parents live in Hartford, Wis., was born June 3, 1910, and was received into the Capuchin order July 22, 1930, and ordained to the priesthood June 20, 1937. He received his appointment as missionary to Guam last Dec. 21. He is among the first to venture into a mission field which has been given into the hands of the Province of St. Joseph.

The departure ceremony for the six priests took place a week ago at St. Francis church, Milwaukee, including the legal commissioning on the part of the Minister General of the order who alone is empowered to send the friars to the foreign missions. The role of the Friar Minor states that those of the friars called to mission work are to ask their Minister Provincial for permission to go, and the latter in turn asks the advice of his counselors and recommends those whom he considers qualified for this arduous task "by virtue of their learning, sound judgment, enlightened zeal, steadfastness of purpose and the commendable observance of religious life."

Father Theophane will leave Appleton Friday and with two companions will sail from San Francisco, Calif., April 11 on the U. S. S. Chaumont for the island of Guam.

GETS GUAM POST

The island of Guam in the Pacific ocean, which has been figuring in the nation's news during the last week or two, is the destination of the Rev. Theophane Thoma, O. M. Cap., above, who has been appointed a missionary to that island. He will leave Appleton Friday, and will sail April 11 from San Francisco with two companions.

2-Week Mission Is Under Way St. Mary Church

Fr. Costello of Ft. Wayne Diocese Is Giving Sermons

A 2-week mission under the direction of the Rev. John A. Costello of the Ft. Wayne diocese opened Sunday evening at St. Mary Catholic church. This week the mission is for the women and next week for men. A sermon is given at 7:30 each evening and there are mission masses in the morning at which brief instructions are given. The women's mission will close next Sunday afternoon, and the men's will open that evening and continue through next week.

Lent already has begun to take its toll of social activities in the churches, for with the exception of Lenten services, business meetings of the organizations' activities and informal group gatherings social life has been cut to the minimum.

The Lenten lecture by Dr. John B. Hanna at First Congregational church Thursday night will continue on the general theme, "The Church Through the Centuries." Circle 2 will be in charge of the potluck supper and Mrs. H. J. Ingold will be chairman. The newly organized Service League will meet at 7:30 this evening at 930 E. Franklin street. The dramatic club will meet at 7:30 Wednesday night at the church and the Youth Council will meet at 5 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. Ember Week

Catholic churches are observing ember week this week. Ember days are Wednesday, Friday and Saturday, days of fast and abstinence. St. Joseph's parish this week is bidding farewell to the Rev. Father Theophane Thoma, O. M. Cap., who leaves Friday to become a missionary on the island of Guam.

"Christ Jesus" was the subject of the lesson-sermon for Sunday at First Church of Christ, Scientist. The following passages were taken from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "The prophets of old looked for something higher than the systems of their times; hence their foresight of the new dispensation of truth. But they knew not what would be the precise nature of the teaching and demonstration of God, divine Mind. In His more infinite meanings—the demonstration which was to destroy sin, sickness, and death, establish the definition of omnipotence, and maintain the science of Spirit. Throughout all generations both before and after the Christian era, the Christ, as the spiritual idea—the reflection of God—has come with some measure of power and grace to all prepared to receive Christ, Truth."

PRETTIEST

Easy winner and easy on the eyes, too, was Cobina Wright, jr., a New York society girl chosen as the prettiest girl at Palm Beach, southern resort. The Artists and Writers club members who voted had no trouble reaching a decision.

Douglas street, read a paper entitled "Why Join Technocracy?"

World Affairs Not Clearing-Masaryk

People of European Democracies Skeptical, He Says

Cleveland, (AP)—Jan Masaryk, Czechoslovakian minister to England until the peace of Munich, declared today, "I cannot see one bright star of hope" on the international horizon.

The son of the little European Republic's founder termed "organized hate" and "state subsidized untruth" part of the totalitarian philosophy, and said:

"The situation is not better than it was before Munich; on the contrary, it is definitely worse."

"If nothing else, the far eastern complication of the late few days has certainly forced even those to look up and take notice who hitherto loved to close their eyes and ears to suit their convenience."

Masaryk, in his address prepared for the American Association of School Administrators, did not name the "complication."

"Hence, lately, when they try to keep step, they fail lamentably, with the result that the dictators keep pushing ahead, getting much more than they asked for or expected, and it is increasingly difficult for the democracies to fool themselves into believing that nothing really has happened."

The public in the European democracies is becoming skeptical, and even cynical. Their confidence is on the wane, and for the life of me I cannot see one bright star of hope on the horizon."

Mr. Barnes suggests a belief that in Germany the benefits of the dictatorial rule are conferred not on the masses, as in Russia, but on the rich and middle class. There is a trap in that. You are asked to concede that the masses do receive the benefits of the dictatorial rule in Russia before proceeding to inquire who receives them in Germany. But the testimony does not agree that the masses receive the benefits of the dictatorial rule in Russia. The Russian system, much of it holds, on the contrary, that they went through years of sacrifice and woe and that now, when there are a few spare shoes, there are also classes in Russia. It may hurt to admit it, but the German masses have profited as much or more in material things.

Lip Service Isn't Much Aid to Customers

But the kernel of the discussion is the wishful distinction between the fascist repudiation of liberty and

So There's Still Little to Choose Between Nazis, Bolos

BY WESTBROOK FEGLER

New York—"It is all too frequently held that there is no difference between communism and fascism," writes Harry Elmer Barnes, who could be thinking of these dispatches which have said as much a time or two to the picturesque wrath of both sides. "They may be equally un-American," says he, "and equally to be resisted, but certainly there is a difference. In the Soviet union the benefits of dictatorial rule are conferred primarily on the masses. Stalin indulges in no such lavish extravagance and Roman holidays as do the Nazi hierarchy in Germany."

"Further, they differ in their attitude toward liberty. The fascists regard liberty as a permanent nuisance, never to be tolerated. The communists at least pretend to regard liberty as an important human value which has to be temporarily put into cold storage during the struggle to stabilize the Soviet union. Whether the communists ever will render more than lip service to democracy and liberty remains to be seen, but the fascists do not even give lip service."

But earlier in the same piece Mr. Barnes notes that the Trotsky communists and other schismatics, all claiming to be true Marxian fundamentalists, contemptuously refer to the governing party in Russia and its accredited American branch as Stalin fascists, and he could have quoted from their arguments to the distress of his own contention. For the Trotsky communists, though they may be read out of the party or shot for dissenting, make out a strong case of similarity between the Nazi and the Russian dictatorships.

The pretense of the Russian dictatorship that liberty has been suspended only temporarily. For the time being, then, as to liberty, there is nothing to choose between communism and Hitler's bolshevism and Dr. Barnes places greater store by lip service to liberty than one would expect of a man so highly learned. Experience has it that people get liberty only by killing those who deprive them of it. He doesn't know, for he says it remains to be seen, whether communists will ever render more than lip service to liberty, and that phase of his essay recalls with mocking irony the old song of the communists, "You'll have pie in the sky when you die."

Mother, Mix Your Own Cough Remedy. It's Better

Quick, Comforting Relief. Saves Money. Easy Mixed.

No matter what you might spend for medicine, you couldn't get quicker, better relief from coughs that start from colds than this simple home mixture gives. It takes but a moment to prepare—it's so easy a child could do it. And it saves real money.

Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments until dissolved. No cooking is needed.

Then get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any drugstore, pour this into a pint bottle, and add your syrup. Thus you make a full pint of really splendid cough remedy and you get about four times as much relief as you could get from any store-bought remedy. It never spoils, lasts a family a long time and children love its taste.

And for quick, blessed relief, you'll say it is truly wonderful. It has a remarkable action. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages.

Pinex is a concentrated compound containing Norway Pine and palatable guaricol, in concentrated form, well-known for its prompt action in coughs and bronchial irritations. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

Mohammedans in India

At about the same time a storm carried Lelf Ericson to the western side of the Atlantic ocean, a Mohammedan king started to make war on the other side of the globe. His name was Mahmud and, his warfare was against India.

Mohammedan had reached India before that, but had won power over only a small part of the country. Mahmud wanted to put the whole land under his rule. He loved the faith of the prophet, and supposed he was doing good work to spread it with the help of the sword.

Mohammedan mosques at Agra were shaken by a great earth quake four centuries ago.

If it had not been for a nervous elephant, the Moslem soldier might not have gone far into India. The elephant was ridden into battle by a Hindu king, the leader of 30,000 troops. The fight was in favor of the Hindus, and it seemed as though the enemy army might have to surrender, but suddenly the elephant took fright, turned around and bolted from the battlefield. Seeing their king running away (as it appeared) the Hindu troops went scrambling after him. Instead of winning a victory, they were badly defeated.

That left northwestern India open to Mahmud and his men. They soon captured the city Kanara, and looted it of riches.

India was not, however, won in a day or a year. In fact, after 29 years of warfare, Mahmud obtained power over less than one-third of the country.

Mahmud was cruel to the people he conquered. He won victories, but was not the kind of a hero Saladin, another Moslem, later became in Palestine.

The deeds of Mahmud have spread trouble down the centuries. They are blamed in part for the ill-feeling today between Hindus and the Mohammedans in India.

In later years, the Mohammedans invaded southern India. They were beaten back more than once but won certain important battles and became masters of parts of the stubborn south.

Today there are sections of India where the Moslem faith is stronger than any other. Some of the mosques are buildings of beauty.

The number of Mohammedans in India is now about 80,000,000. They make up nearly one-quarter of the total population.

Chaffin Chatter

By Gordon R. McIntyre

Appleton Post-Crescent

Tuesday, Feb. 28, 1939

Dear Mac,

One of your "pals" around here wants to know if you're a "spring holidout." He also wondered if you had contracted anything else. It may interest you to know that John Walter of the Press-Gazette relapsed last week and is back in bed. An assistant took over his job and came down with something or other the next day. Now nobody will sit at the sports desk up Green Bay way.

You just gotta get well because a meeting of the Wisconsin State league has been called for 1 o'clock Sunday afternoon at Conway hotel. Chairman C. O. Bartz of Appleton says the session is for the purpose of completing the organization of a Class D league.

A note from the Lawrence college wrestling team commends University of Wisconsin wrestlers for "the good sportsmanship they displayed in a recent meet between the two schools." It goes on to say that the Badger matmen made them enjoy the contest even though they lost.

The Viking squad will entertain the B squad of the state school in a grappling meet at 7:30 this evening at Alexander gymnasium. Most of the matches at Madison resulted in close decisions and some fast, exciting bouts are expected on tonight's card.

Appleton High school cagers trundle down to Oshkosh this evening and are keyed to upset the Fox River Valley conference leaders. While I haven't seen Oshkosh in action this season, methinks Lady Luck and

Dame Fortune have been pulling some of their games out of the fire and they're going to need more than the two aforementioned damsels to beat

Appleton.

The local five have been playing a sterling brand of ball in recent games and is capable of downing most anything that comes along although its conference record won't bear me out. The team has plenty of height, an airtight defense, some crack shots and an abundance of drive, all of which are essentials to a good team.

Lawrence "Bill" Shadd, Negro mainstay for the Oshkosh quint, reached his twentieth birthday yesterday and his high school athletic career came to a brilliant close as he pumped in 13 points for the Indians when they shooked out a 21 to 23 decision at Sheboygan North Friday night. With Shadd out of the lineup, it should not be too difficult to bottle up Bixby, conference high scorer, tonight.

Appleton is said to have had tough luck on its shots in the first meeting with Oshkosh and would have triumphed with a reasonable break on bucket attempts. Without a doubt, the squad will be set to make up for the previous defeat.

To me, all these things add up to one thing, a win for Appleton.

Yours truly,

Dick Davis.

Barlament smashed a 660 series on games of 223, 228, and 209 and E. Eichinger turned in a 233 game to pace bowlers in the Appleton Builders league last night at Arcade alleys. Master Plumbers bowled a 1,051 game and 3,016 total for the best team performances.

Barlament paced Master Plumbers to a 2-game victory over Standard Mfg., led by R. Schmidt who had 201 and 547 and H. Schulze with 224. Eichinger hit another game for 202 and finished with a 606 series, but his Gmeiner and Gearson team lost to Appleton Neon, led by A. Mitchell who banded 549.

Kitchen hit 200 and 524 as Lieber Lumber won two from H. Schultz and Son, paced by J. Fries who scored 201 and 517. H. Stach had 451 as Al Utschig and Son won two from Heinrich Sheet Metal. C. Reichen chipped 490 for the losers.

A. Plette hit 529 as Plette and Sons won all three from Bretschneider's, led by W. Wunderlich who had 459. Starnard banded 558 as Schuessler won two from Schabo and Son. For the losers, G. Mignon had 495.

Bob Nehls rapped 206 and 567 and Bud Wegner 233 as William Nehls and Son won two from F. Hoepfner and Son, led by H. Hoepfner who hit 506.

R. Kranzsch tipped 506 as E. Kranzsch, Dec., won two from Ideal Coal and Supply. For the losers, A. Robbins had 554.

Every outdoor show should have exhibits of outdoor life with as much wild game and wild birds as possible. Specimens of fish will also add color to the display. There should be a section devoted to boats and canoes. This will appeal to people who spend a lot of time on the water, whether it be sailing or using an outboard, paddling a canoe or propelling the more prosaic row-boat.

Fishing Tackle. There should also be displays of the latest in fishing tackle and equipment. Each year enterprising dealers develop new baits and reels, better rods, tackle boxes, and other fishing equipment. Anglers find enjoyment in looking over the new devices and comparing them with the time-tried ones. A shallow pool for casters to limber up their arms and wrists will be popular and will give opportunity for casting competition.

Archery, guns, horseshoes, and many other outdoor amusements can be made part of a show that will long be remembered. Competition at any outdoor games which can be staged indoors will add color to the event.

Camping equipment should have its place, with the latest in tents, sleeping bags, stoves, mattresses, tables, kits, cots, chairs, and what not on display. Local interest will be stimulated, local merchants will get additional business, and local outdoor fans will bring themselves up to the minute.

Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, and others will wish to display their handicraft at a well-organized show. Every force in the community can participate profitably. If you have no outdoor show scheduled for your community, get busy and stage one. You'll find you have something there. And don't forget the trailers, cameras, and moving picture equipment for those who like to record lively thrills.

Talbot Hooks One as 'Big as a Horse'—but It Gallops Away

BY GAYLE TALBOT
MAMI, Fla. (AP)—Don't ever sneer again, fellows, when you see a picture in the papers of a man with a silly look on his face posing beside a fish he just has landed "after a terrific fight." I know it's an unusual request, but I ask you particularly not to sneer if the thing happens to be a sailfish, Gus Bundy, the Philadelphia typewriter tycoon, loaded the Clara B up with food and ice beverages yesterday and said let's go out on the bounding main and catch ourselves some sailfishes. Gus, of course, was lucky enough not to get one on his line. He had a lovely day.

But me, I had scarcely begun to enjoy myself when hell broke loose all around me. The skipper came tearing back hollering "Watch it, you've got a big 'un!" The next six or eight hours were mostly a blank. The skipper said later it wasn't more than 30 minutes, but he's a liar.

Well, this particular fish took that line out to fast the reel was singing tenor. He would take it for 100-150 yards at a crack, and everytime he lit out for another ocean that way, I would have to try to crank him back. The first couple of times it wasn't bad, but about the third time those stabbing pains began hitting my right arm.

Without going into the harrowing details the old arm finally failed to respond. Apparently sensing my collapse, out went this baby for about 150 yards and then came tearing straight for the boat, working the hook loose as he came. The skipper said he was a smart one. They threw the gas to the boat in a desperate attempt to take up the slack, because I was about past cranking. But the sailfish was gone. I hope I never again know such a hollow feeling as when I saw that empty line.

Father Hietpas is coach of the team which has played four high school freshmen quints.

Bobby Willis heads the individual scoring list with 125 points while F. Van Cuyk is a close second with 116. J. Fleweger has 63; Gaffney 59; Smith 52; Larson 25; Van Himbergen 17, and Boursa 15.

At 4 o'clock Friday afternoon the Holy Names play St. Mary's Menasha, at the clubhouse. In the first meet the Saints won over the Parkmakers, 13 to 9. Their other defeat was at the hands of St. John's high school freshmen, Little Chute, 14 to 6.

On Sunday the same boys were in Wisconsin Rapids for the Wisconsin Rapids Ski Club tournament. Here, Lyle Bestul and Ken Trindrup placed fourth and fifth in Class C (the boys are in the second and third grades respectively). In Class B Scandinavia took all of the honors; Loren Lee, 12-year-old son of the superintendent of the school, took first place; Arne Carlson, and Curtis Bestul, third. In Class A Laverne Trindrup placed third and Archie Evenson fourth.

Waupaca's team included Wendell McHenry, Ed Douglas Zwickey, Walter Jorgenson, Dick Kenfield and Billy Nelson.

His Drabble Inn team dropped two games to Schlitz Barrels, 1-0 by Norm Horn who had 203, 220, and 619. E. Hoepfner with 203, and J. Schultz with 200 and 203. Handstedt hit 201 and 200 for the losers.

Frank Foster smashed out games of 228, 206, and a 624 series to lead Forster Eighths; to a sweep over Heinies Halves. F. Eichinger had 208 and B. Roy 205 for the winners. Bill Noffke led the Halves, with a 545 series.

Jacobs Expected to Announce Plans for Louis-Galento Bout
Miami Beach, Fla. (AP)—With no undue strain, sports writers today awaited the official announcement by Promoter Mike Jacobs that Tony Galento will be tossed into the ring with heavyweight champion Joe Louis in June in a title fight.

Jacobs has invited the scribes to join him at his cabana about five hours after sunrise tomorrow, and both the sunrise and the announcement are expected to come along on schedule.

The contract will call for Louis to defend his title "somewhere in the United States," but the word is that "somewhere in New York City" will be more accurate.

Training Camp Notes
St. Petersburg, Fla.—Perhaps the happiest of the New York Yankees to open the world champions' training camp is Wesley Ferrell, the veteran hurler who had some bone chips removed from his elbow last fall. He says he has lost the dull ache in his arm for years, adding, "All I want is a chance."

Clearwater, Fla.—Just to show the Dodgers still are the Dodgers, Brooklyn's first training camp session also was marked by the first collision in the outfield. Bill Peadar collided with big Jim Wingford when they were chasing a fuzo and was knocked out for a moment.

Hot Springs, Ark.—Although Manager Bill Terry of the New York Giants claims his present team is good enough to win the National League pennant, he's still looking for a trade with Jimmy Rippie as bait.

Lakeland, Fla.—Freddie Hutchinson, the expensive rookie, hasn't had a chance to show his stuff in the Detroit camp but Manager Del Baker thinks he'll do. Baker was favorably impressed by Freddie's calm manner and decided his disposition at least was up to major league requirements.

Tampa, Fla.—Jimmy Wilson, Cincinnati's new coach, seems really serious about getting back into harness. He has put in an order for catcher's paraphernalia with an idea of filling it now and then for Ernie Lombardi and Bill Hershberger.

Pasadena, Calif.—Eric McNair, reporting ahead of the other Chicago infielders and outfielders, is ready to play shortstop for the White Sox. The regular short fielder, Luke Appling, is the club's only holdout, having refused a big pay cut.

Avalon, Calif.—Manager Gabby Hartnett of the Cubs jubilant over the possibilities of his pitching staff, says all the fingers but Dizzy Dean will be going full steam in a few days. Dizzy's schedule calls for running, pepper games and light throwing for several weeks as a precaution against re-injuring his arm.

Census of Animals Shows 4,500,000 Deer in America

BY LARRY BAUER
NEW YORK.—That much hunted animal, the deer, leaps through a tangle of dry statistics on big game animals in the United States and comes out ahead, 4,500,000 to 500,000 for all other species. Those figures are from the Biological Survey's first important nationwide attempt to determine the number of the more important wild creatures under captivity. The statistics present a remarkable picture of the comeback of deer in eastern states.

Ted Williams Can't Miss With Red Sox This Season

NEW YORK (AP)—Baseball men can't see how Ted Williams, the slugger from St. Paul, can miss with the Red Sox this season. Friends are worried about John K. Tener, former president of the National league, gravely ill here. The Dodgers are saving Burleigh Grimes' old number (13) for Van Mungo, it and when he shows up. . . .

Rudy York's decision to transfer from an outfielder to a catcher disappointed American league sluggers who were looking forward to bouncing a few off his dome this summer. . . . What we want to know is whether last week's Galento-Feldman fight was postponed a day because of (A) threatening weather; (B) a chilling wind; (C) showers (as three different agencies reported) or a row over the referee?

The biggest man on the red squad—225-pound Ernie Lombardi—is the lightest eater. Also he's the lightest hitter. . . . Arrivals from the coast say Maxie Rosenbloom is making dough head over heels via his night spot, the films and the radio and spending it the same way. . . . Jack Dempsey and Billy Tunstall, the Broadway clothier, have opened a suit foundry in Miami.

A high game of the week was a tie between Lorraine Van Able and Frances Anderson with 207. Josie Haupt had 206 and Kath Oudenhoven 201.

This year, with McNeill touring the Orient, the committee induced Sabin to come back for another try and also roped in Gene Mako, the man he'd beaten in five straight southern tournaments. By seeding Sabin No. 1 and Mako No. 2, the officials hoped to present a final match that would lure a few hundred extra customers into the Seventh regiment armory.

But Mako caught cold last Friday and developed grippe. He had to withdraw. That leaves the tournament with all the class concentrated in the upper half of the draw, where Sabin plays Gus Ganzmeier and Sidney Wood meets Jack Tidball in quarter-final matches this afternoon.

The balance of today's program calls for one second-round women's singles match and quarter-finals in men's and women's doubles.

DICKEY SIGNS
St. Petersburg, Fla. (AP)—The ranks of the New York Yankees' hotshots were reduced to four yesterday when Bill Dickey, slugging first string catcher, signed his contract. While no figures were announced, it was believed Dickey set himself for $18,000. He drew down $18,000 last year and was seeking $21,000 in his early negotiations with the club.

Hull Claims Credit For Ballot Against Navy Base Project

Believes House Moved by 'Propaganda and Hysteria'
Washington (AP)—Credit for one of the four votes against the proposal to expend approximately $50,000,000 for navy base improvements was claimed today by Congressman Martin Hull (D) of Black River Falls.

When the standing vote on the proposal was taken last week, only three of those opposing the proposal were identified positively from the press gallery. They were Representatives Schaffer (R-Wis.), Knutson (R-Minn.) and Burdick (R-Mn.). The fourth vote was standing in the rear of the chamber near the rail. There was no roll call to put members officially on the record.

"Of course I want credit for that vote," Hull said today. "I am for an adequate home defense program considered calmly and in the light of reason."

Hull said the house did not consider the naval base improvement bill in the light of its necessity but was moved by "propaganda and hysteria."

Sees "Enemies" At Home
Schaffer said he opposed the measure because he did not wish to be accused of "huge government expenditure." He said the final crack-up comes and we are facing inflation and bankruptcy.

He said, he, too, favored adequate national defense from "enemies both outside and inside our gates." He suggested it might be well for the government to consider "enemies" trying to overthrow the government. "The enemies of government agents" before "shaking its fists at powers abroad."

With a mounting debt of more than $40,000,000,000 and with apparent approach of bankruptcy and inflation with accompanying hardships, I don't want to be among those voting us further into debt," Schaffer said.

"It's time to act as well as talk about reduction of expenditures," Wiley Undecided.

Senator Alexander Wiley (R) of Chippewa Falls said he had not determined his stand on improvements for the naval base at Guam. The house cut out of the bill a $3,000,000 item to cover cost of improving harbors and providing a seaplane ramp at the island. Some senators predicted it would be replaced in the bill by the senate naval committee.

"I am confident the house acted with due deliberation and for the country's best interests in deleting the troublesome item," Wiley said. "I am determined to cover our hold on the Philippines as the present act provides."

He added any swift change in far eastern affairs might "change overnight" his stand on the bill.

Informed sources said a delegation from the Mesquimene Indian reservation would fail in its efforts to oust the management of the reservation's mill.

The bureau considers lack of a market for the lumber mill products rather than any management inefficiency was responsible for curtailed mill income.

Would Amend Law
Senator Wiley has prepared an amendment to the Walsh-Healy act to provide for exemption of dried milk from its restrictions. The act sets production standards for government purchased products.

It applies now only to "perishable" products.

Congressman Reid F. Murray (R) of Waupaca admits to an ear for his own particular brand of music. Recently he was discussing Frederick Jagel, opera star, and Jagel's criticism of the national anthem, with house members.

"As far as I'm concerned," Murray ventured, "the sweetest music this congress could compose would be the drumming of 32 milk in the pails of Wisconsin farmers."

L. M. Emans Leaves for Cleveland Convention
Waupaca.—Superintendent L. M. Emans left Friday night after the Waupaca-Iola homecoming game for Cleveland, where he is attending the annual convention of the American Association of School Administrators which will continue for one week. On his return trip he will be met in Chicago by Mrs. Emans who will spend the weekend with him there.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wildang, of Appleton, and Roy Barber and daughter Dorothy returned late Saturday night from a trip that took them to San Antonio, New Orleans and Biloxi. In New Orleans where they stopped to attend the Mardi Gras they were surprised to meet Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Gmeiner, Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Wagner and also Harry Baikansky, all of Waupaca. In Biloxi they ran across Mr. and Mrs. Ira Christoph, also of Waupaca.

The Christophs returned Sunday from two weeks spent in the south accompanied by their daughter Miss Edith, student of Oakbrook State Teachers' college.

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Christoph will leave Tuesday morning for the west where they will attend the world's fair at San Francisco.

Clergyman Urges Concerted Action For Play Program

Methodist Pastor Advocates Recreation to Curb Juvenile Delinquency

New London—Concerted public action for a complete recreational program for the children of New London was urged by the Rev. R. R. Holliday, pastor of the Methodist church, in a talk before the New London Business and Professional Women's club at the Elwood hotel last evening.

Pointing out that statistics show New London to have the highest juvenile delinquency list of any other city under 10,000 population in the state, the pastor proposed a public mass meeting at which representatives of all church, civic, social and patriotic groups of the city could discuss and work out the problem.

Better coordination of school and church work among the children was urged by the pastor as one of the elementary factors in a large community program. The pastor practically monopolized the women's free time nowadays with more extra-curricular activities and it is hardly possible to get the children and students apart from these activities for participation in other affairs, he complained.

Lacked Cooperation by separate groups have been futile, and committees for worthwhile projects have failed to get the children to take part in them. He pointed out that the pastor has acted as scoutmaster for the London's only boy scout troop and received such little cooperation from the boys that he resigned to draw public attention to what he considered the community's greatest problem.

To keep the scout movement alive in New London, he secured the approval of his congregation to form both a boy and girl scout troop in the Methodist church. Training classes for adult leaders will begin at the church Wednesday evening with instructors from Appleton. Herb Heilig, director of the Appleton Vocational school, will talk to the men and Miss Dorothy Petron, girl scout executive, will talk to the women. The public is invited to join the training classes, the pastor said. After his talk, the women of the club held open discussion on the pastor's proposals and ideas.

DANGEROUS SERVICE

make his way through the babel. She would have to speak to him.

But he did not come. Gradually Petronella felt her first control ebbing from her. She was no longer numb. Her power to feel was returning to her. She was acutely alive, acutely miserable.

"But surely," said the man to whom she was talking, "you don't really think that?" What didn't she really think? But it was all right. She heard herself answering him.

No Escape

Strange, how your mind was divided into parts, and the parts could work separately. What a fool she had been, to think that Tony would come. He was with that girl, the girl in the perfectly tailored gray flannel suit and the little slouch hat. Misery enveloped her. Her head throbbed. She was young, and inadequate. Completely incapable of handling a man like Tony Lance. That girl was sophisticated, lazily sure of herself, and of her own attraction. "My clothes are all wrong," thought Petrel. That girl was the right accompaniment to a man like Tony. The kind of woman he could take anywhere, to Moscow, or Alexandria, or Budapest, at a moment's notice. She would arrive looking immaculate. "Whereas I," thought Petrel, "white linen, white straw hat, creases, limpness, little girl clothes!"

She was not looking at them, but she was fiercely aware of them. They were laughing together. She felt as insulted as if Tony had hit her across the face. Fool, fool, fool, she upbraided. All this time, she had been imagining that he had loved her. In reality, he went everywhere with another, a more suitable girl. This party was a nightmare. She must escape. He must never know; for certain, what she had felt, the suffering she had endured for him. Unless she got away now, he would read it in her eyes, her foolish, untutored eyes.

"Michael, thank you for a lovely party. I have to go early."

"Goodbye, Petrel. Sorry you didn't talk to Tony Lance."

"I've read his articles." They moved towards the door.

"He's just been given some sort of hush-hush job with the Foreign Office."

"Really? How clever of him." Looking up, Petronella found that Tony had left the girl in gray, beside the fireplace. He stood, barring their way to the door.

"Talk of the devil!" cried Mike, gladly. "I was just telling Petrel Mallone about you, old boy. Petrel, this is—"

She scarcely looked at Tony. In her mind, resentment and anger predominated. He must not know that she had cared.

"We have met, Michael. Rangoon, wasn't it? Rather an unusual evening. I seem to remember in the middle of one of the riots."

She hated her own flippant voice, but pride insisted that she should employ it. Michael left them together.

"Yes, Rangoon. I remember perfectly." He spoke, gravely, awkwardly, as if he were shy. Petronella was surprised into meeting his eyes.

"Perhaps you are one of those people who has an excellent memory for some things, and a rotten one for others." The moment she had spoken, she was ashamed. His eyes were not triumphant. Love should know no obligations. Nothing had changed between them. The same attraction was there. She was sure he felt it, too. Even while his mind denied its importance, she told herself. She was helpless against Tony's mind. But he felt as she did. That they had met yesterday. That they had known one another a lifetime.

"I love him," she thought. "I can't escape."

Jurist Outlines Citizenship Rules

Judge Werner Bases 'Ten Commandments' on Washington Address

New London—Ten commandments for good citizenship gleaned from George Washington's farewell address to the American people were offered to the New London Rotary club yesterday noon by Circuit Judge Edgar V. Werner of Appleton who was guest speaker at the club's regular luncheon meeting at the Elwood hotel.

The first commandment, he said, requires a good citizen always to be ready to give freely of his time and support to the common good regardless of personal inconvenience or loss of time. The highest type of service is that which is given voluntarily rather than that which is compelled publicly as in time of war, he said.

Other cardinal points he urged for good citizenship were the fostering and conservation of religion and religious freedom, preservation of the law-abiding spirit, cultivation of the nation as a unit and minimizing of sectional feeling for the common good, and above all, no foreign entangling alliances.
